YOUR PROBLEMS

by Ann Landers

"May Open Few Other Eyes"

Dear Ann Landers: Be an angel and pull me out of the Valley of Indecision. Should I marry the guy or not?

Lorly is 30. I am 23. We have gone together 13 months. He was married five years ago but never talks about it. My parents try to conceal their dislike for him, but it shows.

Lorly is a salesman, and a good one, but he is always short of money. He has lost his wallet three times since I've known him and I've had to lend him money to make the payments on his car.

Jealousy is his worst fault. He has a habit of telephoning me after every date — he claims it's to say "good-night" but actually he's checking to see if I'm late-dating.

One night I was in the shower and didn't hear the phone. He came over and sat on the porch all night. I found him asleep on the swing when I went to work the next morning at 7:30. I had a tough time convincing him I had been in the house the whole time.

Now, on the positive side: He is very good-looking and appeals to me physically. Well, that does it. I have been sitting here for 10 minutes and I can't think of one other thing to say.

Don't bother to answer this letter. You have helped me more than you know. Thank you. — EYES OPENED

Dear Eyes: I'm not answering your letter — just printing it. It may open a few other eyes.

Dear Ann Landers: The young woman next door is a disorganized, addlebrained wisp of a thing who manages to have a baby every (Continued on Page 34)
