The highest vote given to Drale was by precinct No. 33, in Pacific Hills, where 165 electors asked Drale's return to office. They are the ones who suffered with the establishment of the gravel pit and dump operators on the hillside back of their homes.

The next highest vote was registered in precinct 32, which omprises the voters of the area near the city dump which Drale has been trying to induce the City Council to close for more than a year-an act which the city has refused to do.

Drale's popularity was demonstrated by other "highs" in precincts throughout the city. Benstead's record was commendable, polling high votes in areas which have been neglected by the City Council. A sour note of the campaign was the effort of some interest to inject into it "race" and "religious" prejudice. This attempt may have reacted to the defeat of one or more candidates, and it has been labeled by good citizens aware of the effort as un-American and un-Democratic, since this nation was founded on freedom of religion.

The City Council will meet next week to declare the official results of the election, and the new Councilmen then will take
