American Way of Life Shown in 'Our Town'

'Our Town', in which a New Hampshire town is both the hero and the plot of the play, is being presented by the Torrance Community Players for a two day run on August 1 and 2, performance starting at 8:15 p.m. at the Torrance high school auditorium. This is the Pulitzer prize-winning Broadway hit by Thornton Wilder, set in a hamlet called Grover's Corners at the turn of the century, and telling a story representative of all towns in all sections of the country, and of the people who live in them. Wilder's play is the story of the typical figures in a country village, from the newspaper editor and the doctor to the choirmaster and the town gossips. All the familiar sights and sounds of the village are evoked too; the clanking of the milkwagon on its early morning rounds, the slap of newspapers being thrown against front doors, the crow of the rooster, the stir of the sleeping town gathering itself into life, and the silence of the village streets after dark. The great popularity and continued interest in 'Our Town' is attributed to the fact that it is a perfect picture of the American way of life, told by a gifted author who brings true illumination to the simple events of life," stated Dan D. Desmond, supervising director of the production. Even such a quietly charming scene in a boy and girl share an ice-cream soda in the village drug store has continued in the memory of theater-goers who saw the original Broadway production in 1939.

Torrance High Students Attend Red Cross Camp

Two Torrance High School students were among 120 delegates from senior high schools attending the Junior Red Cross Leadership Training Center at Camp Seeley, Crestline, during the week of July 13th to 18th. Frances Fre... senior, and J... engler, sophomore, were enrolled in courses in civil defense, water safety, first aid, and home nursing. Besides the academic side of the training program, there was also a varied social schedule for the young delegates, including sports, games, and campfire singing, it was disclosed. Square dance music was provided by the Rex Parker Trio. Another dance during the week featured Louie Valdez and his orchestra. Social events were capped with the banquet at the close of the week. The purpose of the training program is to aid these young people in realizing and developing their leadership qualities, so they may be better citizens in their homes, communities, and country, a Red Cross official stated.
