AT YOUR FRIENDLY

THURS., FRI., SAT.,

KAISER

LARGE 25-FT. ROLL

N.B.C.

1-LB. BOX

ALL AMERICAN

LARGE 20-0Z. JAR

FRESH BAKED

PACIFIC STA-CRISP BOX

MONARCH FANCY FOODS

FANCY APPLE SAUCE No. 303 27 Big 46-oz. 9 46-oz. Cans

29° BETTY CROCKER GINGER CAKE HORMEL'S LUNCHEON MEAT SPAM Can.....

POT WINNERS FOR THIS WEEK

D. Borrelli
17029 Atkinson Ave. 14927 Halldale Ave.
Torrance, Calif. Gardena Calif E. E. Currin 15222 Gerkin Ave. Mrs. Max Dolan 4138 W. 166th Street Lawndale, Calif. -CROSLEY TELEVISION SET DRAWING - DECEMBER 20th

O. C. Stover Hawthorne, Calif. 650 Jefferson Ave:

EXTRA TENDER U. S. GRADED GOOD GENUINE STEER BEEF

GROUND FRESH EVERY HOUR

WHOLE

SHOULDERS

LUER'S

EASTERN-SKINNED

SMOKED

LARGE PARTS TO BAKE

LEGS MILK WHITE No Steaks Off

FRESH KILLED CUT UP ROASTING

PACKAGE

IOWA SMOKED

PICNIC

U. S. GOVT. INSP. FRESH KILLED FRYING

CELLO WRAPPED Regular 49c Value

STEAK STEER BEEF STEAK

STEER

BEEF

THE FINEST ROAST IN THE BEEF

JUICY STEER T-BONE ROUND

CUT-UP Waste Free, Oven Ready FRICASSEE

/EAL

Dressed EVISCERATED YOUNG TENDER

WASTE FREE TOMS EVISCERATED YOUNG TENDER

FILLET EASTERN

By GEORGE S. BENSON

Looking Ahead

LETTERS TO AN EMPLOYER

(Note: The following letter as received on December 1. It such an unusual letter I requested the writer's permission to use it in this column. I accept it as a tribute not to me personally but to the employers of people everywhere. Mr. Green has been on the staff at Harding college for three years.-G. S. B. Dear Dr. Benson:

Your memorandum announcing that the staff of Harding college would have Wednesday, Thursday, Friday and Saturday off, with pay, to spend at home with our families, started a train of thought in my mind and led to the impulse compelling me to write this letter. I've never before written such a letter. However, I should have written something like it to every employer for whom I've worked. What I want to say is this: I'm grateful to you for creating the job I hold. I'm realizing for the first time, how important the people who create jobs are to the people who need them. And almost everybody needs a job. For the first time, I'm realizing that I'm like millions of other people who work for wages or salaries. We're not job makers. We have abilities, or capabilities, or talents. But the actual creation of a job which pays a daily, or weekly, or monthly pay check is something none of us has been able to accomplish.

My own natural inclination, when I got out of school, was toward self-employment. So I tried running a business of my own. I didn't make the grade. Apparently I lacked the something-or-other that makes the successful business man tick.

Perhaps I could have survived had I gone to the land and farmed. But I knew even less about farming than how to create a permanent paying job. I was obliged to become an employe on a job someone else had created. Had not a job been available, frankly I do not know what I would have done. Grim necessity might have made a difference. As it was, I needed only to adjust myself to the requirements of a job that almost any able-bodied man could have held. It provided the necessities of life and some of the pleasures.

Later I again tried operating my own business, this time with three employes and a pretty good opportunity for success. I simply didn't have what it took. The business falled. I became an employe again, on a job somebody else had created. Eventually the job didn't satisfy me, so I began studying for a pro-When I attained it, found myself, alas, dependent upon someone to create the position and provide the salary. That's where you come in. The job I hold and most of the nearly 100 other jobs at Harding, did not exist when you became the chief executive officer. You've made a success of Harding college, built it up, expanded its educational work into many fields. You've created lots of jobs-good, permanent, satisfying positions for persons like me. In writing you this letter of gratitude, I am also recognizing in a sense the social value of job makers throughout the nation: men like Sloan and Wilson at General Motors, where 300,000 jobs have been created since I was a sophomore in high school; men like Holmes of Swift and company; Levitt, the mass-production home builder; Le Tourneau, the earth mover; the pharmaceutical Lillys of Indianapolis; the corner drug store owner, the department store head, and so on. They are the job makers. There are one or two to be found wherever people work. With their unusual enterprise and industry, their perseverance and their courage, they make jobs for the rest of us. Thank you for our Merry Christmas.

Sincerely, GLENN A. GREEN.

By JO SERRA

The Low Down From Hickory Grove

Am just back from a little jaunt — a pulse-feeling trip choosing to find out how folks are feeling since the November fourth apple cart spill. And in one sentence, it is, "they feel better." It has been many a moon since I have observed such a feeling of confidence and faith-like when you step off of limber, quivery, thin ice onto terra firma itself. Passing a fish market in Santa Cruz, there sat Antonio on a bench, leaning against the wall in the sun. Tony, my man, I says, my word, you can't sell fish sitting there. Don't care to sell much fish-I relax, he says. If I work hard, sell lots of mackerel, have little left after taxes. If relax now, sell less fish, have about the same after taxes. Pretty soon, he says, maybe taxes less, then I relax less, make some dinero I can keep and put in the bank-not give all to Govt.

CLARK