COP

Wardwell was subdued and the handcuffs were on. Thereupon Cooper promptly passed out. Arrested for drunkenness, disturbing the peace, and resisting an officer was James W. Wardwell, 32, of 1720 Prospect, Hermosa Beach. A friend, James D. Beggerly, 56, of 16009 Harvard, Gardena, was booked for resisting an officer and interfering with an arrest.

Officer Cooper of the Gardena police made the arrest after Wardwell began to get boisterous and unruly in the cafe. When Wardwell began to fight with the officer, Cooper called on Sgt. S. Johnson, Sgt. Ted Morris, and Officer Don Cook of Torrance for assistance. The Torrance officers happened to be in the cafe at the time.

It was during this fracas that the well-intended but ill-fated blow was struck. Cooper was taken to Park Emergency Hospital. Upon being returned to the station he fainted once more. He is at home temporarily to recuperate.

YOUNG AND OLD STILL YEARNIN' FOR LEARNIN'

By RALPH R. GOMPERTZ
It never occurred to me that school courses, like people have different personalities.

I observed this fact for the first time upon making an informal survey of the various classes being offered by the Torrance School of Adult Education one evening last week.

In view of the fact that the adult school will hold open house this week, Dr. Marshall Crawshaw, principal of the evening school, invited me to attend some of the classes.

Security
Max Landar, whose heart and soul is in the business machine courses which he teaches, explained why his students come to take his classes as follows: "Some want to learn the newest techniques or else they want to add to the skills they already have. This helps them get better jobs. Industry takes advantage of these classes, too, by sending their employees to me for further training."

"Some," he added, "take these courses just so they will have some skill which they can rely on, even if they don't have to work for a living at present. One never knows what will happen."

have not even made a counter-offer involving money. No worthwhile progress has been made so far with the employers and we hope that they will change their position."

No Counter-Offer
Mossesso gave no indication at this point as to the likelihood of a strike, except to say that there was nothing to talk about with the employers at present since they are not willing to make any kind of monetary offer.

Even if the Union were to call for a strike vote, Mossesso said, they could not do it tonight since this will be a general meeting.

Frank S. Selover, executive secretary of the Harbor Area Employers' Council, had no comment at this time regarding the employers' position except to say that the employers will meet today to discuss the matter further. The meeting is scheduled for 2:30 p.m. in the HAEC office, 1731 Border avenue.

sister when he was aroused by another sister's screams and saw Diana dashing out of the room. "All I saw was a flaming torch when I finally caught up with her. I grabbed her, tore the night gown from her, and rolled her around on the ground beating the flames out."

Reginald suffered second degree burns on the two fingers of his left hand, all of his right hand, and also on his right knee and left ankle. His condition is not serious.

Parents in Trailer

The children's parents were in a trailer in back of the house. A sister, Shirley, 11, summoned the father, Leonard Griffin, who rushed in to help beat out the remaining flames. Bobby, 2, was in the house at the time.

Luxury costs so little...

everyone can have it — electrically!

It seems hard to believe, but there was a time—and not so very long ago—when having fresh food at every meal was considered a luxury. It's hard to believe because these days everyone can do it, and without even the need for daily shopping trips. Electric refrigeration has just about dropped good eating out of the luxury class—it's just another of the taken-for-granted items in everyday living. You don't need a "luxury income" to buy electricity—it's today's biggest bargain.
