

Court St. Catherine Institutes New Junior CDA Court at Nativity

OFFICERS INSTALLED IN COLORFUL RITES

A new Junior Catholic Daughters of America Court, under sponsorship of Court St. Catherine, was instituted at impressive ceremonies held Sunday afternoon in Nativity parish hall. The initiation was conducted by the Junior CDA officers from Court Our Lady of Victory in Redondo Beach, under direction of Mrs. Lorenzo Otto.

New Officers
Guiding the affairs of the new organization will be the following officers: Miss Susan Gately, president; Miss Carol Armstrong, vice president; Miss Kathy Schott, secretary; and Miss Marilyn Revell, reporter. Counselors in charge of the four troops are Mesdames William Hardesty, John Melville, F. C. Rick and Joseph Terkmanny.

Mrs. Gerald Loew is Junior Chairman for the senior Court of CDA. Serving with her on the Junior Council are the four above-named troop counselors, the Grand Regent of Court St. Catherine, Mrs. Frank A. Gately, vice regent, Mrs. Laurence Derouin, and the court chaplain, Reverend P. J. McGuinness. Each troop will have one business and one social meeting monthly.

The new officers were installed by the archdiocesan president, Rose Marie Herrera. The choir from Junior Court Madonna in Lynwood sang, and the drill team from this court put on an exhibition.

Dignitaries
Dignitaries introduced included Mrs. Adam Zaharis of Lynwood, state chairman of Juniors; Mrs. Irene Detwiler of the National Junior Advisory Board, from Compton; Mrs. William Clifton of Long Beach, newly appointed district deputy for the local senior court, and Mrs. Willard C. Olson of La Canada, archdiocesan junior chairman.

New Members
Initiated into the new organization on Sunday afternoon were the following girls: Seventh graders, to be in Mrs.

Forester, LeRoy Armstrong, Bernard Dougan, J. J. MacDonald, Laurence Derouin, L. J. O'Hara, and Robert Lewellen, Jr.

Mrs. Brooks Attending Parent Talks

Mrs. Carl Brooks, parent education chairman of the 232nd Place School P-TA, has been attending lectures under Mrs. Beatrice Woodbridge, parent education consultant for the Los Angeles City School System. She is on the staff of teachers for adult education, and has resided in this area seven years.

A survey taken to determine what interested parents most, resulted in the topics (1) better discipline; (2) learning about sex; (3) cooperation in household chores; and (4) money allowances. The subjects were listed in the order of their importance.

DINNER PARTY

The Paul Hardesty of 2849 Onrado street, entertained Mr. and Mrs. Dick Livingston of Ellinwood at dinner last Saturday evening.

'Tura' Frames Worn As Cosmetics By Models

It was recently brought to my attention that girls with perfect 20-20 vision, or whatever classification good eyesight comes under, are being fitted with spectacles primarily for their cosmetic value.

This revelation came as rather a shock to a girl who won't even wear her glasses when she should, and goes around squinting and passing her friends on the street due to the fact that she can't recognize them.

The unbelievable role glasses play in altering facial characteristics was demonstrated to me when I recently dropped in at Dr. Soss' Sartori avenue offices to have a chat with the representative of Tura, Inc., of New York. Tura, in case you didn't know, was formerly known as Futura. For years the company has been advertising its glamorous frames in Vogue, Harper's Bazaar, and many other fashion media.

"Profile" Frames

Here's an interesting tidbit... professional Powers models whose noses have a side-tilt, wear Tura "profile" frames that straighten their features, although they do not require prescription lenses. Proof of this surprising fact was demonstrated to me by the Tura representative.

Determining the right frame for your face has been worked out down to a fine science... a facial chart is prepared for you on which lines are drawn to indicate where and how ornamentation should be placed to correct or distract from facial irregularities... not only ornamentation, but color also plays an important role in bringing out the best in your features.

Features Can Be Changed
I was shown how a broad-bridged nose can be narrowed and vice-versa; how a large mouth or chin can be reduced; how a bit of detail or ornamentation on one corner of the frame can swing tilted features to an optical illusion of perfection, and even facial scars can be practically obliterated.

To make all this even more fascinating to the fashion-conscious, these optical miracles were achieved for the most part with beautiful jeweled designs intricately and ingeniously worked at the top, sides, temples of the lightweight "tutium" metal frames.

Fabulous Frames

For after five wear, one can truly match this fabulous eyewear to the occasion with baguette rhinestones, pearls, sapphires, and the plain opulent gold frame that Tura has entitled "After Five."

As I saw the lovely array of the lightweight tutium frames in such lovely shades as blush pink, copperlite, milk, bronze, powder blue, navy, ebony, to name several, it suddenly seemed imperative to have several pairs for different outfits. Extravagant though... but with Christmas coming, what a grand idea for the gift that is different!

The board of the Perry School P-TA will meet at the home of Mrs. Delmer Kern on December 9.

TOBY MOCK MARRIED IN LONG BEACH CEREMONY

Double Ring Nuptials In Little Christ Chapel

IMPORTED ITALIAN LACE... fashioned the bodice and the panels of the skirt in exquisite wedding gown worn by Miss Toby Marilyn Mock for her marriage to Richard E. Pore in the Little Christ Chapel in Long Beach.

The Little Christ Chapel of the First Baptist Church of Long Beach, was the setting for the recent marriage of Miss Toby Marilyn Mock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Chandler C. Mock of 409 E. Carson st., Torrance, to Mr. Richard E. Pore, son of Mrs. T. U. Lindross of 1854 E. 63rd street, Los Angeles, Dr. Winfield Edson officiating.

Gown of Imported Lace
Imported Italian lace and nylon tulle underlaid with white slipper satin composed the empress style wedding gown and cathedral train of the attractive bride. The low wide neckline of the gown's fitted bodice was outlined by the delicate lace pattern, and dusted with seed pearls and iridescent sequins.

The bride's fingertip length veil of illusion was caught by a pearl-encrusted tiara, and her cascade bouquet of three white orchids, gardenias and stephanotis, was tied with ribbon of her favorite color, coral. She was given in marriage by her father.

Maid of Honor Miss Betty McCoy, wore a hoop-skirted floor-length gown of powder blue lace and tulle underlaid with satin, and carried a cascade of pink-tinted gardenias. Wearing similar gowns of pink, and carrying blue-colored gardenias were Bridesmaids Mesdames Raymond Maddock, Jr., and Robert C. Martin.

Tulle in matching shades was ingeniously fashioned to simulate flowers in the coronet style headpieces of the attendants.

Powder blue tulle over satin was used for the floor-length gown worn by little Lynn Peterson, flower girl, who also wore a matching hat, and scattered rose petals of pink and preceded the entourage down the aisle.

Male Attendants
Dressed in a dark blue tux, 5-year-old Keller Peterson solemnly carried the traditional white satin pillow bearing the gold nuptial bands, while Candelighter Marvin Pike lit the long tapers.

Attending the groom as best man was Harold R. Hardwick, while ushers were Robert C. Martin and Alphonso Escobar, Jr.

At the reception held at the church after the ceremony, Judy Pike was in charge of the bride's book. The bride's mother received in a teal blue taffeta dress with mauve accents and satin shoes and bag dyed to match the dress. The mother of the groom chose a gown of mauve brocade with matching accessories for the occasion. Contrasting corsages of carnations graced the shoulders of both matrons.

The bride, a Torrance High graduate, was a member of the Y-Teens, and was attending Art Center in Los Angeles. The bridegroom, recently completing service in the Navy, will continue his studies in engineering at East Los Angeles Junior College.

Las Vegas and Apple Valley were chosen as honeymoon destinations for the newlyweds.

Holiday To Set Theme At Woman's Club

Exchange of gifts and a Christmas skit will highlight the potluck luncheon next Wednesday, December 15, as the Torrance Woman's Club meets at 12:30 in the clubhouse on Engracia avenue.

Mrs. W. C. Boswell, Jr., who is in charge of the drama group, will present the skit which will include Mrs. J. A. Isenbrandt, Mrs. A. F. Ewalt, Miss Margo Whitney, and Miss Pamela Boswell in the cast.

The tall Christmas spruce, decorated by the Juniors, will add to the Yule atmosphere, as a unique arrangement whereby gifts will be exchanged will follow the business meeting at 1:30.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles H. Ruggles, of 2010 Perry St., announce the birth of a daughter, Sheryl Ann, weighing 6 pounds and 13 ounces.
