All vaccinations against poliomyelitis, except those scheduled to be given in school clinics, have been discontinued because of a shortage of vaccine, Dr. Ben Kogan, district health officer, said today.

It is hoped, the health officer said, that vaccine set aside for the schools will last until such time as more vaccine will become available.

It is possible that a new supply adequate to cover adults and children may be available by April 20, according to Dr. Roy O. Gilbert, county health officer. The public will be alerted as soon as the health center vaccination program is resumed, Dr. Gilbert said.
