INCINERATOR BURNING BAN EFFECTIVE TUESDAY

A new sport has come to Los Angeles County. It is of a temporary nature, since the equipment it requires consists only of a stout sledgehammer and one useless incinerator. Especially useless after October 1, the date on which the Air Pollution Control District has prohibited backyard burning.

While many residents of Los Angeles County are having fun battering down their almost defunct incinerators in anticipation of the imminent burning ban effective October 1, others have yet to make arrangements for combustible rubbish collection services, according to Dr. Roy O. Gilbert, County Health Officer.

In the unincorporated areas of the County, the Board of Supervisors has placed the program under the surveillance of the County Health Officer and his field inspectors.

Citizens of incorporated cities whose collection systems are already in operation, or residents of unincorporated areas lying within existing garbage and refuse disposal districts have no collection problems. But, warns Dr. Gilbert, householders in unincorporated areas not within disposal districts have only a few days more in which to arrange with their nearest private collectors for rubbish pickup service and payment therefor. A householder may haul his own refuse to a lawful disposal facility if he desires to do so.

Private collectors have been giving service in unincorporated areas for some time, but on October 1 these operations will be expanded to include some 300,000 households.

LEGEND OF THE RED FEATHER

History records the use of the Red Feather as a badge awarded for chivalry and courage. In the 10th Century, the Black Prince awarded the Red Feather for acts of valor. Legend tells us that Robin Hood bestowed the Red Feather upon his men for outstanding courage, courtesy, and generosity.

The American Indians decorated their fearless braves triumphantly with eagle feathers dyed bright red. Therefore, it seems quite fitting that Community Chests throughout the country carry on the tradition of the Red Feather as a symbol of our willingness to share our good fortune with others and a demonstration of our faith in man.

JFF CLUB HOLDS FIRST MEETING

The JFF club met in the Recreation hall at Waverly park recently. This was the first meeting since June and plans were made for the remaining months of the year. The newly installed president, Neal Crovella, president.

After a short business session refreshments were served at a beautifully decorated table, by Ida Haun. Entertainment was furnished by Edith Buckingham. First and second prizes for games were won by Helen Conze and Barbara Taraldsen, respectively.
