

Vet Reminder For 750,000

Three last-minute reminders to 750,000 veterans in training this fall under the Korean GI Bill were issued today by the Veterans Administration.

Enough Money
First, veteran students were reminded that they should have enough money of their own to tide them over the first two months of GI training. It takes that long, under the law, for a veteran's first monthly GI allowance check to reach him.

Attendance Important
VA's second reminder has to do with the monthly certification of class attendance. These should be signed by the veteran and a representative of his school, and sent to VA promptly after each month of training completed. Late certifications invariably mean late checks, VA said.

No Limit to Earnings
The third VA reminder is for veteran students who want to get part-time jobs after school, to supplement their GI allowances. There is no limit on the amount of money GI students may earn outside of class. In fact, they need not report outside earnings to VA.

The only "ceiling" on earnings applies to veterans training on-the-job under the Korean GI Bill. In their case only, if earnings rise above a certain level, GI allowances will be reduced, VA said.

BANK OF AMERICA MAKES NEW CHANGES IN AWARDS

The big increase in student enrollment in the high schools of Southern California has caused Bank of America to make important changes in its statewide Achievement Awards program for high school seniors this year.

Jesse W. Tapp, chairman of the bank's board of directors, this week announced a whole new division for the Southland competitions, and $9300 in additional cash awards. This brings the total for the three geographical divisions of Southern California to $31,400. Added to the $22,800 awarded in the two divisions of Northern California, this makes the statewide cash total $54,200.

In the Southland, additional awards of 70 gold trophies and 2000 certificates of achievement will go to seniors who have made superior records as young citizens and scholars during their last three years of high school. Similar awards are made in Northern California.

In former years there were two Southland geographical divisions—the Los Angeles City Schools division, and a division consisting of all the other high schools of Southern California. This year only the Los Angeles

City Schools division will be the same.

The remaining old Southern California division will be cut in half by a line running approximately from just south of Long Beach to just north of Needles. Since the two divisions thus formed will not compete with each other, there will be twice as many final awards, ranging from $100, to $1000 each, and nearly twice as many semi-final or zone awards of $25 and $50 each. Many more seniors will get into the zone and final competitions, as there will be 14 zones in the Southland instead of the former nine, besides the six zones of Los Angeles City.

Zone competitions will be held in various cities April 17. Finals will be in May, and winners will receive their checks at three banquets in their honor—two at the Statler Hotel, Los Angeles, and the other at the El Cortez Hotel, San Diego.
