in Matinee Theater December 24, as the Christmas Fairy; Anita Freisheim, Olympic Division Queen and Paramount star, who plays the mother; Jack Lockhart, radio singing star, as the father; Stephen Stackhouse, winner of many contests, as the Nutcracker; and such ballet notables as Dorothy La Spina Marks, Paul Owsley, Christine Weldon, Tony Pagliani, and Gladys Naumen. The story of the Nutcracker Prince is adapted from one of the famous tales of Hoffmann. It is treated as a free fantasy and each of the six scenes is the original inspiration of one of the six choreographers. The music is drawn from the scores of Tchaikowky, and the lovely settings are designed by artist Lee Brooks. The costumes are especially extravagant especially in scene in the "Castle of the Nutcracker Prince" where

Legion Party for Children Today

The Bert S. Crossland American Legion Post, 1109 Border St., announced this week that their annual free Christmas

Children's Party in the Club House will be held Sunday, December 22, at 2:30 p.m. Santa Claus will give candy and books to the children and several fine motion pictures will be shown. The post also invites all persons in the Torrance area to attend their Annual New Year's Eve Dance and Party, December 31, starting at 9 p.m. until 2 p.m. Mel Coates and his Swingsters will lead the dancing party. The club house is beautifully decorated for the holiday season. Noise makers will be given free to help bring in the New Year. No minors are allowed.
