

Play Goes Into Ninth Week

Going into their ninth week of "The Lady's Not for Burning," members of the Hermosa Players are becoming well known to the public. Recognized and pointed out on the streets, the beaches and places of business, they are hailed by people who have seen them in the cast of the current play on the Pier. Many came up to them and introduce themselves, tell their enjoyment of the play and even ask the actors to home dinners!

Denis Keen, for example, was discovered at the beach by two attractive young ladies who had seen the show and wished to meet him. Thomas McBride, who portrays the justice Tupperoom, is constantly making new friends at the supermarket, as people speak to him about the play.

London Born

Sally Conrad, who plays Margaret in "The Lady" spends many moments explaining to strangers that she did not learn her British accent from director Gray, but picked it up in London where she was born.

"I've never made this many friends so quickly before," says Betty. Willingham who played the role of Alison Elliot for the past six weeks. Betty has left for her home in Oklahoma and has been replaced by Ellen Sutton, who will be remembered for her work as Mary Warren in "The Crucible." She is the costume designer for "The Lady" and will now have the opportunity of wearing two of her creations in her stage role.

Pat Gray will replace Michaele Madsenne for a week while the later vacations.

"It's really a golden cast," director Gray says, "they readily captivate their audience."

Director In Movie

Director Gray has been appearing at one of the local movie houses in the motion picture "Desert Hell."

The performers are delighted to see people return to see the play two and three times, and have many made friends this way.
