

Sewage Water Reclamation Urged Conserve Dwindling Resources

Their final act before re- after more than 30 years each, Col. H. E. Hedger, engineer of the County Control District, and A. M. chief engineer of the Sanitation Districts, this submitted a comprehensive to the Board of Supervisors. The plan would be capable of re- covering 10,000,000 gallons of sewage water each day.

"I think that this is the begin- ning of a most constructive pro- gram to assist in solving our wa- ter shortage," Supervisor Hahn declared.

He pointed out that for many years the Hyperion sewage treat- ment plant of the City of Los Angeles has dumped 200-300 mil- lion gallons of water into the ocean daily.

"This water is treated and all sludge removed so that it is 90% pure before it is put into the ocean. At the same time, the underground basins have been en- dangered by the intrusion of salt sea water," Supervisor Hahn continued.

report pointed out that the only presently feasible of supplementing existing supplies until Feather water can be made avail- about 1975.

Driving Ban for Maladjusted Urged

Drivers whose records indicate emotional maladjustment should be removed from the road until a medical authority certifies their mental stability, one of the nation's leading traffic safety specialists said.

Marland K. Strasser, Pacific Coast Accident Prevention specialist for the Association of Casualty and Surety Companies, said a "significantly dangerous group of emotionally maladjusted persons constitute a working menace to our safety on the highways that we cannot continue to tolerate. They must have their driving until such time as they show evidence of correction of their emo- tional problems. This must be re- quired just as a medical certifi- cation is required from a person showing evidence of a physical problem.

"Such a forward step will re- quire rare political fortitude," the speaker admitted, "for there are bound to be those who will say I am suggesting state psycho- analysis on a grand scale—which is ridiculous.
