"Torrance Mannequins" Set Date For Informal Fashion Shows At Caprinos

"Torrance Mannequins" a group of local models with professional experience will resume their fashion shows Feb. 5 at Caprinos.

Headed by Dorothy Wilkes, formerly a model for Helen of California in Los Angeles and a graduate of the Dorothy Farrier Modeling School, the girls have their eyes on the new spring fashions.

The "Mannequins" are out to prove that the "best" dressed women need not travel to Paris for clothes. "We use styles from local stores exclusively," states

Mrs. Wilkes. All of the models in the group formed last November are married and live in the area. "Modeling keeps us on our toes" says Dorothy.

By using fashions from the local shops the group accomplishes two goals. "We work on a non-profit basis, all money over our expenses can be donated to the charity of the local club that sponsors a show and by using the clothing available we also prove our main contention that American women are the best dressed women in the world," explains Mrs. Wilkes. Modified versions of the extreme styles are practical for California living and more flattering to the figure the models feel. An expert at what to wear with what and the right type of accessories, Mrs. Wilkes and the other members of the group give a fashion show as informative as it is fun. During the lunch hour at Caprinos the modeling will be informal with the girls stopping at the tables to tell a little about the creation they are wearing and of course the price.

AN EVENING AT HOME or an informal get-together calls for an outfit comfortable but elegant. Modeled by Dorothy, black velveteen capris from Moore's Women's Wear are perfect for such an occasion. The pants are trimmed in red yarn, the matching top buttons down the back.

Local Artist Has January Exhibit in Manhattan

A one man show by local artist, Mrs. Bette Seidler, 3602 W. 227 St. will be on exhibit at the Manhattan Beach library, 425 N. 15 St., during the month of January.

The show consists of 28 pieces done in various mediums and combinations of mediums.

Mrs. Seidler received her training in New York City, majoring in art at a specialized high school and studying at "The Art Students' League."

She is an active member of the Torrance Art Group, a past president and the present editor of the group's Newsletter.

Mrs. Seidler's work has been represented in all annual Torrance Art Group shows and at the recent Books and Arts Fair in Torrance.

The artist gives credit to her husband, Roy Seidler, for the handsome mats and frames that he made for her work.

Teens, Parents to Compile Code of Ethics

"Teenage Problems" and a code of ethics between parents and students will be the Jan. 21 topic of the Stephen M. White Jr. High PTA, 7:30 in the auditorium.

Parents and students who are interested in compiling a code of ethics for the students are invited to attend. Subjects that will be discussed are: dating, allowances, chores, use of phone, TV, parties, community teenage activities, going steady and homework.
