Reminders for Vets Who Plan Fall Training

Three, "money" reminders to retrain GI Bill were mentioned to the half-million veterans planning to train this fall under the Ko-

First, veteran-students were reminded to take along enough money of their own to tide them over their first two months of GI training. It takes that long, under the law, for a veteran's first monthly GI allowance check to reach him.

VA's second reminder has to do with monthly certifications of classroom attendance. The veteran and a representative of his school, and sent to VA promptly after each month of training completed. Late certificate invariably mean late checks, VA said.

The third VA reminder is for veteran-students who want to get part-time jobs after school. There is no limit on the amount of money GI students may earn outside of class. In fact, they need not even report outside earnings to VA.

The only 'ceiling' applies to veterans training on-the-job. In their case, if earnings rise above

Torrance Business Men Encouraged to Take Active Part in Politics

The Torrance Chamber of Commerce's Legislative Committee, headed by Chairman John Wallace of Ryan Aeronautical has finished the second of a nine-week course titled "The Action Course in Practical Politics."

Discussion Leader, W. H. Holmes, said that 20 men, the maximum allowed, are taking the 2-hour workshop weekly course to encourage businessmen to take a more active part in politics.

Holmes said that the course was entirely non-partisan and the subjects are: 1. The Individual in Politics, 2. Political Party Organization, 3. The Political Campaign, 4. The Political Club, 5. Political Leaders, 6. The Political Meetings, 7. Political Meetings, 8. Businessmen in Politics. The ninth meeting will feature an open meeting with elected politicians.

A certain level, GI allowances will be reduced, VA said.

Members taking the initial course, the first such course given in this entire area are: Scott Albright (National Supply), Bob
