It's A Wise Parent

A Common Sense Approach to Your Child

By Janice Coe

ve can't unglue him from the TV set. He insists he can et his homework done in the morning before school, vhen he's rested and fresh. But he's always sleepy, ranky and rushed at that time. We've argued and threatened and even punished him, but nothing can break him of this habit. Can you help?

Dear Mrs. T. S. Glue takes a long time to set. . . and so do habits! If you can't "unglue" your son from the TV set at eleven, it's because you permitted him to sit and "set"

How many parents use TV these days as a convenient "baby sitter" to keep the children quiet while Mama is busy or company is around? How many parents use TV as their prime source of family entertainment. . . ruling out "old time" reading, baking, corn popping, walking or talking together?

Self discipline is the first step in disciplining others, especially our children. So, much as it may hurt, disconnect that set, and call a truce on TV viewing. Then, together with your child and husband, plan the viewing for the week. . .as part of the schedule of work and play for the whole family. A lonely child needs the unreal company of TV, a real family needs only the best of TV.

Race Meet Is Slated at Ascot

Smiling Al Gunter has returned seasons back and looms as a coo his red-hot form of a couple favorite with Sammy Tanner and Troy Lee for Friday evening's (Oct. 9) motorcycle race meet at

Time trials start at 7, with the knocked time off the Ascot marks in the 8 and 3-lap races. Al was spectacular a couple of seasons back but, prior to last Friday night, had been taking his lumps pretty regularly this semester.

Safety Spoons

Stainless steel "safety spoons" which have a hook that allows them to stand upright on the edge of a pot, pan or dish is one of the new "aids-for-the-blind" items now available to local blind people at the Braille Institute.
