Fun In the Sun

Fashion Editor,

Facing the sun, and facing facts . . . about our figures . . . seem to go together about this time of year when the new-look bathing suits are beginning to show up in February in California may seem a foolish month to locals to be fussing about swim suits . . . but the truth is, girls, the largest and smartest selections come in right now. Getting a head start, at least on looking, should give you a flying start toward that diet or those exercises you've been dreaming about getting to "some day."

All swim styles this year, whether one or two piece, are slim, trim, neat, chic. And your figure should follow suit! Bikinis are "in" . . . the teenies will be glad to hear .. more varied, but perhaps a bit more modest than their European counterparts.

One piece, long-line maillots are also "in" . . . usually with exceedingly low backs, but more demure fronts, with better than ever controlled and contoured built-in bras.

which yet manages to seem most lady-like and feminine. There also are loads more ways of covering up after swimming than the good old fashioned terry cloth robe. These go-togethers range from tiny wrap-around skirts over bikinis, to torso sweaters and full length skirts.

We show such smart coordinates today in a check knit, two piece suit with double cord forming the shoulder straps of the top and threading through the waistline loops of the shorts. The fabulous, beachcoat length bulky sweater is of orlon and wool, and both parts come in yellow or green with white.

And just in case you think we've forgotten about looking pretty from tip to toe . . . we've spotted gay, delightful rubber toe flowers which, slipped onto the big toe and worn poolside will indeed make you lovely . . . or at least a conversation piece . . . from tip to toe!
