Wit's End

By CELIA JOYCE

Dear Miss Joyce,
I have a wife who brow beats me on every occasion.

When we are home alone she is all right, but let us entertain guests and that is another story.

For instance the other night we had guests and my wife called me dumb, lazy, and a cheap bum.

We have been married eight years and I am wondering if I should see a doctor or send her.

—Lost Husband

Dear Lost Husband,

You surely are what you sign yourself if you put up with this kind of treatment... unless you deserve it!

How do YOU behave when you're alone with your wife? Perhaps guests just give her a chance to get even with you.

However, if you're the innocent guy you paint yourself... remember! even the rodent world has Mighty Mouse.

Dear Miss Joyce,

How can I convince my husband to go to work again?

He was laid off work about a year ago and now he thinks because I work and make good money that I should support him in style!

He is not even a good baby sitter, my son calls me at work wanting to know where his father is.

Should I quit my job, leave him, or see a psychiatrist?

—Worried Worker

Dear Worried Worker,

Try telling your spouse the facts of married life. If this fails quit your job and tell husband you've decided to take a vacation too.

If your husband really persists in this beatnik philosophy... best he go it alone.

Dear Miss Joyce,

I have been married 20 years in July. I work as a secretary in aircraft. My husband thinks I should wear blinkers, so I could not look to the right or left.

That way I would not associate with the people I work with, and I would not be invited to participate in the bowling league, and company parties.

He seems to think all I am to do is work, cook, watch TV and be happy cleaning house on my two days off.

How can I convince him I also like to associate with other people without him thinking I am flirting with every Tom, Dick and Harry.

—Mrs. Secretary

Dear Mrs. Secretary,

There's no smoke without fire. What caused the smoke in your husband's eyes?

Why should you want to participate in activities that don't include him? He obviously would feel left out if you were enthusiastic about amusements he couldn't join.

I'm sure there are activities associated with your work that include the husband (or wife) of the employee. Take him along or don't go. He's the fellow you came in with!

Campaign Gets Under Way for Shrine Game

More than 100 Shrine representatives met at Al Malaikah Temple, Los Angeles, yesterday for the annual Football Kickoff banquet. The meet marked the opening of the sales campaign for the Ninth Annual North-South Football Game and Pageant, which will be held in the Los Angeles Coliseum on Friday, Aug. 5.

Distributions of tickets will be made to Shriners representing Al Malaikah Temple's uniformed organizations and various Shrine Clubs throughout the Southland. A limited number of tickets will be sold this year, according to an announcement made by Elmer P. Bromley, Managing Director of the game. And, the minimum ticket price this year will be $1.50.

In order to make better seats for the fans, Bromley added, the field will be moved toward the west end.

Special pageant spectacles will be held in the peristyle end of the stadium, to add even more to what already is an outstanding show.

Teams of 25 of the outstanding senior high school players in the
