Gas Company's Babbe Greeted,
Shupp Honored

Some 400 civic, business, and industry leaders last week saluted C. W. Shupp, manager of the Southern California Gas Co. southwest division for the past three years, and welcomed George Babbe, who succeeded Shupp as manager.

The two nights of special dinner meetings at the Cockatoo Inn in Inglewood were attended by mayors, city council members, administrative officers, and other civic and business leaders from southwest and bay-area communities.

Gas company president and general manager F. M. Banks, who was principal speaker during the special programs, announced Babbe's appointment and saluted Shupp for his service to the gas company and the community during his term here.

Babbe assumed full responsibility for company operations in the division April 1.

Shupp, who became Southwest division manager for the utility in September, 1956, has been named manager of the gas company's recently formed metropolitan division in Los Angeles.
