Down South

By Barbie Bell

On April 23, South High presented its first all-school play, "320 College Avenue" in the newly-opened cafeteria.

This theatrical production evolved around a spine-tingling mystery with a startling finale. Intermission entertainment also was enjoyed by everyone who came to view the event.

Congratulations are in order for Spartan Mike Robbins who successfully competed in the zone competition for Bank of America achievement awards. Mike is a representative from South's math and science department.

He now will compete in the Los Angeles area contest.

An unusual controversy is debated and discussions concern the changing of the Alma Mater.

To settle the situation a new Alma Mater has been written and orchestrated. Both will be presented at an aud-cast, played by the band, sung by the choir and then sung by the student body. After the aud-cast an election will be held to permanently establish the Alma Mater.

Three weeks ago, the two-story science wing officially opened its doors for some 800 over-anxious science students. The labs are beautifully constructed and feature the latest equipment.

Just last week, the library held its grand opening. This long-awaited building is now running full swing and is open Tuesday and Thursday from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m.

Newest club on campus is the Service Club Honor Society, also known as—Order of Athena and Order of Apollo.

Members were selected for their service to the school newly-elected president of the Order of Athena is Mitzi Yoshio. Gary Hand will lead the Order of Apollo. The club's duty is the controlling of campus problems.
