

Magic Chef Market to Feature Hot Bakery

One of the most interesting areas of the new Magic Chef Market, expected to open early next month at Hawthorne and Sepulveda in the Del Amo Shopping Center, will be its in-store bakery.

Operated by Robert M. Lehman, whose years of bakery experience have included owning and operating wholesale and retail bakeries, and designing and manufacturing bakery equipment, the bakery will be one of the stars of the show at Magic Chef.

"I want to emphasize first of all," said Lehman, "that the Magic Chef Bakery will be a hot bakery. We'll be baking all day and bringing out fresh merchandise continuously."

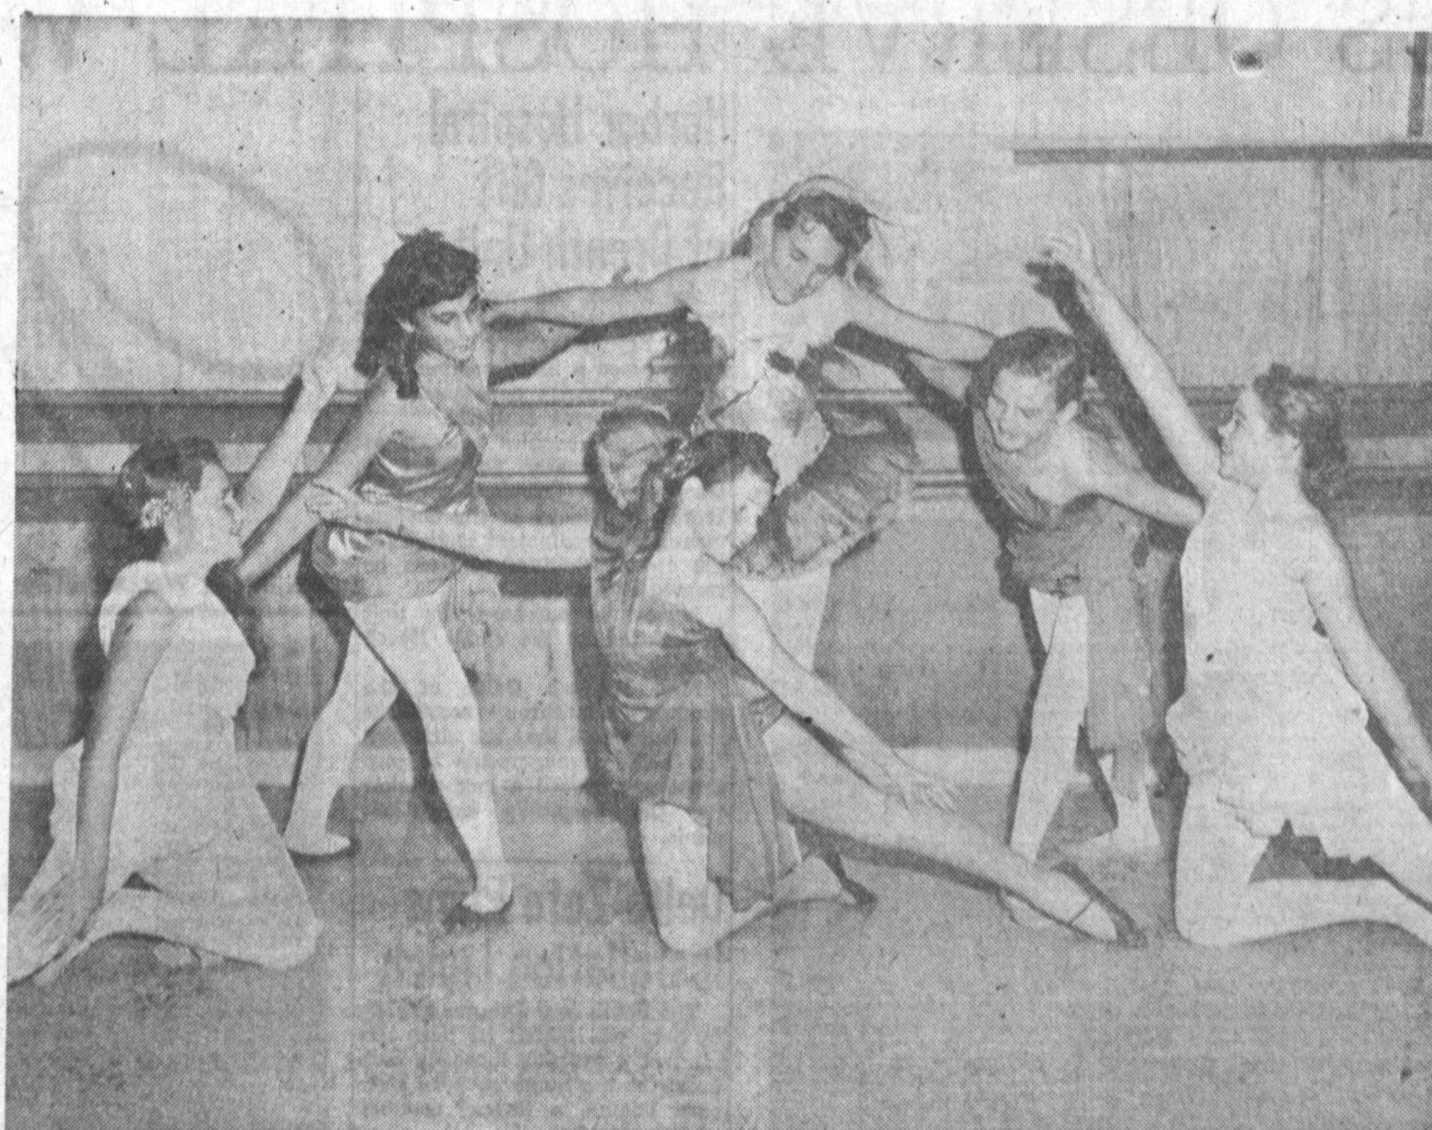

"We'll have a line of fancy breads, brioche and croissants, which are a rarity in supermarkets. Another specialty will be patio items: pizza bread, and a herb roll I developed for barbecues. Plus cookies, cakes, pies, hearth breads, and finger desserts.

"There'll even be entertainment. We'll have expert cake decorators working behind a picture window during the market day. We'll take special orders for cakes, of course."

As a bonus for children, Lehman plans to give every child who comes to the bakery counter accompanied by a parent a free Magic Cookie—"with the parent's permission, of course," said Lehman, who is a father and grandfather.

The number of families owning two or more cars has grown from about 4,000,000 to 7,000,000 during the past five years, reported the Automobile Club of Southern California.

El Camino Offers Course for Married Pupils Only

"We as human beings, need the thinking of the group to meet the situations that confront us today," Harold Wolpert, El Camino College psychology instructor comments in explanation of his course, "Problems of Marriage."

Limited to married persons only, the course is described by Wolpert as "strictly functional, because family relations are around-the-clock business."

The three-unit course will be offered at El Camino during the summer session and will carry transfer credit toward work in sociology and psychology.

Registration will be held June 20 for current students and June 21 for former and new students, with classes running from June 22 through Aug. 3.

As a result of student evaluations in past classes, the design of the course is based on selected areas of investigation listed as the most important in lessening potential conflicts in marriage.

"Surprisingly, economics in marriage receives more attention than the more popularly conceived notions of marital conflict," Wolpert said, "but we don't teach budget making."

In the study of marriage economics such important but little understood matters as insurance problems, G.I. benefits, Social Security, will and testaments, and credit buying are examined.

Other areas such as child rearing, in-laws, and sexual relationships are explained from discovered needs presented to the class by participating students.

"If we can teach people to recognize their problems," Wolpert said, "if we can teach them to communicate with one another, we will have done much to prevent the anguish that comes from marital conflict."

Wolpert speaks with the authority of 30 years of sociological and psychological work, as a teacher and in private practice.

MRS. WILLIAM CHARLES CODD
... honeymoon in Las Vegas

Karen Hester Marries William Charles Codd

Spring flowers interspersed with ivy decorated the chancel of the First Methodist Church Saturday for the candlelight wedding of Karen Colleen Hester and William Charles Codd. The double-ring vows were recited before the Rev. Peter Lee.

The bride, escorted to the altar by her father, wore a ballerina-length gown of chantilly lace over taffeta highlighted by a white satin cummerbund. Her illusion veil was secured by a lace and pearl tiara. A bouquet of white orchids and stephanotis offset by ivy completed the wedding ensemble.

She was attended by her sisters, Mrs. James W. Leech, matron of honor, and Miss Cynthia Hester, bridesmaid. Both were attired in pale green nylon and carried white baskets of spring flowers.

The mother of the bride wore a champagne ensemble with beige accessories. The benedict's mother was in navy blue crepe.

Eugene Codd served as best man. Ushers were Butch Hazel and Jack Johnson.

More than 250 guests were welcomed to a reception in the Moose Hall following the reception.

After a wedding trip to Las Vegas, the newlyweds will reside in Walteria.

The new Mrs. Codd was graduated from Torrance High School and El Camino College. Her husband also attended Torrance High and is now with Columbia Steel.
