'Sabrina Fair' Debuts at El Camino College

Seats are still available for "Sabrina Fair," final play in the El Camino College Summer Theatre Workshop series, tomorrow and Saturday in the Campus Theatre.

"Sabrina Fair," a light farce, based on the theme of a servant's daughter being courted by two sons of a wealthy family, was written by Samuel Taylor. In the 12 years since its debut, it has proven to be one of the most durably popular plays among college and community theatre groups.

The play stars Penny Phillips in the title role, with Ron Calkins and Parker Herriott playing her two suitors. Also in the cast are Virginia Henderson, Anna Menelaus, Bill Rufford, Sally Yates, Su Allin, Norman Fordyce, Audrey Laster, Michele Smith, Terry Wilson, James Pike and Tony Castano.

Directed by Howard Banks, with stage settings by Les Thomas, both of the El Camino drama faculty, "Sabrina" concludes a summer season which has included "State of the Union," and "Antigone." Curtain-time for "Sabrina Fair" is 8:30 p.m.

NO BACKBONES?—Youngsters in a summer school class at Hillside Elementary School, Torrance, are studying marine life through a unit of science the youngsters call "animals which do not have backbones." Here, Sharon Dudley reads to inspect the animals through a microscope while Cathy Powers illustrates the project.
