Island Ingredients Flavor Costume Luau

Hula atmosphere will highlight the "strictly social" luau to be presented by the South Bay Chapter Mothers of Twins Club, with 60 members and husbands attending the island event in costume. Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Carroll, 513 Via La Selva, Hollywood Riviera, are the host and hostess at the event to be slated Sept. 10 at 8 p.m. The garden, featuring roses, tiki gods and a fountain, will be highlighted with pink lights, mats, low tables, decorative paper fish, and flowers. Orchids will be given to members and leis will be given to all attending.

Church Society Gathers Goods for Unfortunate

Discards of old furniture, clothing, newspapers, appliances, household goods and the like will help the St. Vincent de Paul Society send underprivileged boys to camp this summer, Msgr. James E. Dolan, director of Catholic camping, said today. A portion of the proceeds of all materials donated to the St. Vincent de Paul Salvage Bureau during August is providing campships for boys aged 8 to 12 years from large low-income families and distressed homes. Salvage can be contributed by calling Richard Whaling, TE 4-4533, in the Harbor area.

Jobson, Kendall Marry During Aug. 7 Ceremony

Adorned in a seed pearl coronet holding a fingertip veil, Miss Jo Ann Jobson became the bride of Michael John Kendall at a late afternoon ceremony Aug. 7. The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Theron Simpson Jobson, 429 Via Media, Palos Verdes Estates. The bridegroom is the son of Mrs. Lee M. Kendall, 503 Calle Mayor. At the wedding, held at the Neighborhood Church, Palos Verdes Estates, the bride was gowned in white silk organza over taffeta, featuring Alecon lace appliques. A scoop neckline, short sleeves and a chapel train detailed the bridal gown. The bride carried a cascade of butterfly orchids and stephanotis. Serving the bride was Miss Kathryn I. Fornas, maid of honor, and Miss Judith Ann Graham, Betty Lane, Carol Lee Kendall, and Mrs. William Stephens, bridesmaids. The bride's attendants, wearing identical gowns, were attired in a sheath gown of chandelight-beige organza over taffeta. The ensemble was trimmed with Swedish appliqued lace. The Misses Anne Kuchar and Keborah Fairbanks, dressed in white organza frocks, carried nosegays to altar where the father of the bride gave her away in marriage. Serving the groom as best man was Ens. David N. Schultz, U.S. Navy, with David Mowrer, Gerald L. Thrall, William Jobson and James Mullen, ushers. At the reception following, which was held on the church patio, the new Mrs. Kendall received guests wearing a delphinium, chiffon sheath styled dress, with a matching lace bodice. The bride's mother was gowned in a pastel pink sheath, which was accented by a draped bodice and skirt. Serving at the reception were: Mmes. Linn Welson, Malin Wing, William Lane, Robert Fox, LaVerne Gill and the Misses Dede De Silva and Lillian Hoehn. Presiding at the guest book were Miss Virginia Owens and Linda Erickson. Among the out-of-state guests invited by the bride's family were: Mrs. Beulah Jobson, San Marcos, Texas, her grandmother; Guy Scruggs, San Antonio; Thomas Maxwell and daughter, Mary Evelyn, Waco, Texas, aunts of the

Winter Fashions Make Appearance, Dislodge Summer

"The calendar may contradict us—the thermometer may tell a different story—but the fashion news coming in over the wires tells us in unmistakable tones that fall is at hand! In color, in texture, in silhouette the message is echoed," said Sears' fashion consultant. Burnished tones of antique gold and brass and the whole range of muted and mellow greens taken right from Nature's fall palette are found everywhere in the fall fashion picture. All the purples, from palest lilac to deep violet, are found in everything from bulky sweaters and richly plaided coats to the most delicate amethyst jewelry. Another new favorite is rich ruby-toned red, with glowing depths. Pat Campisi, (picture) Torrance girl and student at South High, presents a cotton skirt of unpressed pleats in a Dan River cotton in a price range of $3.98 to $5.98. The dacron and cotton blouse, with puff sleeves, is one of many now featured at the department store during its back-to-school promotion. Miss Campisi can be seen modeling teenage fashions at the weekly fashion show, held each Tuesday at 1:30 and 3 p.m. at the Torrance location.
