Local Pilots Eye Annual Race Set for October 8-9

If Torrance housewives look up Saturday morning and see the skies full of small planes zooming overhead, it won't be junior grade Martians.

Off on the fourth annual flight from the Torrance Memorial Airport on a round-trip dash to Searchlight, Nevada, close to 50 pilots are oiling their motors and checking their gear, according to Ray Biesecker, chairman.

Sponsored by the South Bay Exchange Club, the race has annually attracted more pilots, Biesecker declared.

Entrance fee for the contest is $25, with an awards banquet slated the following Saturday evening at the Hacienda Hotel in San Pedro.

"We expect every type of plane to enter, from 65 horse to 300 horse power," Biesecker said. "Anyone who holds a private pilot's license, men or women, may enter." Judging will be on a handicap basis.

Area pilots already signed up include Jerry Hamel, 4505 W. 222nd St., Torrance, Don Hunter, 1000 Torrance Blvd., Emery Stromberg, 125 S. Broadway, Biesecker, 2022 Redondo Beach Blvd., of Redondo, and Ernie Valenzuela, 615 7th St., Hermosa Beach.

Free Polio Shots Offered Citizens by Bowl-o-Drome

The extensive Polio Injection Campaign throughout the southland gets an extra boost Saturday, Sept. 24, when the Schreibers throw open the doors of their popular Torrance kegging palace, Bowl-O-Drome, and invite the public to attend their Gala Polio Party.

"Drome officials will pass out free candy, ice cream and balloons, and a staff of Los Angeles County doctors and nurses will be on hand to give injections against the malady.

All out in an effort to help curb the rising number of polio cases reported in Los Angeles county because of people failing to follow-through, or even receive the first of the series of three needed for protection and the yearly booster, Bowl-O-Drome will pay half the $1 charged for polio injections.

Saturday's Gala Polio Party will begin at 10 a.m. and last as long as men, women and children keep coming. Parents are particularly urged to bring their children.

Rubbish Delayed

bish collection business over to private collectors, however "now we are up in the air," Remelmeyer declared.

There are technical legal points with reference to this bond, Remelmeyer declared. "The city will want control on these problems, and they are not easy to solve," he added.

Another meeting of the city council, with the city manager, George Stevens, the director of public works, Wade Peebles and the city attorney, is slated within the future.

"It would be impossible for homeowners to sue on the bond should everything not work out well," Remelmeyer cautioned. "We don't have the ability to investigate a collector too thoroughly; and a 'joint venture' of a group of collectors working together will require vast equipment and money."

"The price is not the primary concern," Remelmeyer said.

Meanwhile, Torrance, in the rubbish collection business and charging homeowners $1 per month, went into the red during the last fiscal period to the tune of $138,656.

Mayor Albert Isen, queried by the Torrance Press, reiterated his stand. "The whole council is sincere in its desire to get the best possible service in the collection of rubbish. The problem is not an easy one to solve."

CALL THE FIRE DEPARTMENT — Joan Luop, Torrance Chamber of Commerce fire prevention chairman, calls attention to Terry Taylor, recent beauty winner and now "Miss Fire Prevention" that fire strikes an American home every 2 minutes. The Chamber is focusing homeowner's attention with their slogan "a minutes carelessness can cause a lifetime of regret." Fire Prevention Week is Oct. 9 to 15.

September 1947. The Junior Woman's club was also active in bringing the YW to Torrance.

Prior to this, the program had been carried on with teenage girls, Girls Reserves, in Lomita in the thirties. At the request of the War Relocation Authority the YW assumed responsibility with the Japanese returning to the Lomita Air Strip in 1945.

Work has gone on in the Narbonne High School with staff responsibility being shifted to Torrance to balance the work load. With the releasing of the Torrance women, the Narbonne area will be carried by other Harbor Area staff.

District Is Poor, Says Official

It costs about 35 cents an hour to educate our children, "which is less than the price of a baby-sitter," Superintendent J. H. Hull told 200 members of the Torrance Educational Advisory Committee this week.

"Torrance has about one-third more children than the 'average' city and those extra 7,000 youngsters are creating financial problems," Hull declared.

"Torrance's high birth rate and low assessed valuation per pupil make it a 'poor' district," he stated.

The district's "poverty" is the reason the Board of Education has called an Oct. 11 tax override election which, if passed, would provide funds for operating expenses, salaries, books, and equipment for the district's 34 schools. Legally, these funds are completely separate from the bond funds used to build new plants.

"Our assessed valuation is only $8308 per pupil, whereas any district with less than $10,000 per pupil is considered poor," he noted. "Industry provides a large share, more than 60 per cent of the total, but Torrance has more children than the average district."

R. L. Herbert, chairman of the education committee of the Torrance Chamber of Commerce, told the group that one question always asked by industry is "What type of school system does your city have?" Torrance has a good system, in industry's opinion, he said.

He urged those attending the T.E.A.C. to support the upcoming override tax election on Oct. 11 because a "better educated city is better for everyone and especially for industry."

"We are building the building for our children," he said, "but this election would help to provide the tools for learning. We don't want more buildings; we want institutions of learning," Herbert declared.

Almost 1700 new cases of tuberculosis have been reported in Los Angeles County thus far in 1960, the local tuberculosis and health association reported today.
