

RIDE 'EM COWBOY—Little Jim Ren teases his sister Linda, who plays horse, with a snow cone. He thinks he will get more of a gallop out of her this way. What he doesn't know is that she already finished hers and wouldn't want a bite anyway.

CRUNCH, CRUNCH—Too busy to say a few words or even look, John Shattuck, 12, concentrates on his snow cone. This kind of concentration can be only found during the summer at snow cone feeds and strangely disappears upon the opening of school.

SHARING A NIBBLE with a fuzzy friend, Pam Sather, six, pauses for a smile before continuing work on the snow cone. "Pinky" says he likes the flavored ice even though the cold retards the wiggle in his nose.

"YOU WANNA BITE?" asks young Bruce Ishimoto, five, who has so much snow cone he doesn't know what to do with it. However, it doesn't look as though he is going to wait too long to finish it . . . Who can roller skate with a snow cone in hand?
