Opening of New Hughes Paint Will Feature All Home, Automotive Needs

Gala festivities and low prices will be a part of the grand opening ceremonies October 5 at the new Hughes "Homeowners' Paint Supermarket" where residents of Torrance and other South Bay communities will be able to fill all of their home needs. This ninth Hughes store, the seventh to open this year, will be located just south of the Del Amo Shopping Center on Hawthorne at 2300th. It will feature complete automotive builders supply, plumbing electrical and housewares departments in addition to the famous line of Hughes paints.

EXPANSION

The Hughes brothers, Louis and Ralph, have conceived and coordinated the company's entire expansion program. The company was founded in 1919 and until last year had two stores serving Los Angeles and the San Gabriel Valley. In the past year, six new stores have opened all over the southland and, as of Oct. 5, the seventh will swing into operation in Torrance bringing the total number of stores to nine. A tenth store is scheduled to open Nov. 1 in La Habra.

Hughes flock, sold all over the nation for flocking trees, is an already large and growing division of the Hughes Company. Hughes flock has been used by movie and television studios to produce snow scenes in many movies. This year the Hughes brothers expect the flock sales to surpass all previous records. The "most up-to-date do-it-yourself Paint Store" will be managed by Jim Foley, a resident of the South Bay area for over 14 years. Al Escobar, also a South Bay resident will be the new store's assistant manager.
