Adventists Convene in Coronado; Youngsters Ask Aid for Missions

Where science stops and the spirit begins will be discussed at a three-day medical-ministerial convention at Coronado, at which representatives of Torrance Seventh-day Adventist Church will be present.

Pastor Glenn Goffar and Dr. Virgil Wood will attend the session Oct. 27 to 29, at the Del Coronado Hotel.

Some 1,000 physicians and ministers from Los Angeles, Santa Barbara and Ventura counties will attend.

According to Pastor Goffar the convention will discuss "the many interrelationships of medical science and religion which when properly integrated will effectuate a more complete healing process."

Physicians and clergymen of Loma Linda University's school of medicine and the Seventh-day Adventist Church will discuss how science and religion combine efforts to aid in healing the "whole man."
