

TEA Tells Annual Scholarship Plans

List Local Youngsters Who Have Benefited from Aid-to-Education Program

Scholarship activities of the Torrance Education Association were described to the Board of Education by Al Phelps, member of the TTEA executive board last week.

The scholarship committee of the Torrance Education Association prepared the report on progress and achievement in the scholarship program as its contribution to American Education Week, celebrated nationally and this year in Torrance on Nov. 5 to 11.

Each year the association offers a $600 scholarship award to a graduating senior from each of the high schools in Torrance. Students recommended should be members of the future teachers club who expect to continue in teacher training in college. Awards are based on the following: scholarship, leadership, and citizenship.

Supervisor Tells Plans For County-Wide Shelters

Supervisor Kenneth Hahn yesterday announced that at last Tuesday's meeting of the Board of Supervisors he introduced a motion calling for a special election to be held on Tuesday, February 6, 1962 on whether or not the County should build fallout shelters on school grounds for the protection of the 6,000,000 people of Los Angeles County.

Proposed construction plan would provide fallout shelters within 15 minutes walking distance of the home of each resident of Los Angeles County and would cost $400 million.

Supervisor Hahn pointed out that the maximum cost to the average family would be ten cents a day for a four year period and that "a dime a day will keep fallout out than 100 are Sacramento, 161; Fresno, 136; Contra Costa, 130; San Joaquin, 128; San Diego, 127, and San Bernardino, 103.

Bonded indebtedness for the districts amounted to $992,051,000.

The districts spent $143,490,600 for capital outlay, away!"

According to Registrar of Voters Benjamin S. Hite, the total cost of the election would be $897,363. Of this amount, $315,000 can be saved if precinct election boards contribute their services, polling places, leaving the remaining cost at $382,364 — or approximately one-half cent per person.

Approximately $65,000 of the total would be for paper and preliminary printing, and the balance would be for maintenance and operations.

Lotte Goslar's Troupe At El Camino on Nov. 21

Presenting her comic version of "For Humans Only," Lotte Goslar and her pantomime circus will appear at El Camino College in the Campus Theater at 8:30 p.m., November 21.

Miss Goslar's program combines dance, pantomime, music, clowning, parody, circus, cabaret, music hall, and an element of the grotesque.

This is done as the performers feel like doing it, without rule, but has been written in in German newspapers as "rich in fantasy and growing in its spiritual and dance-wise inventions."

All seats for her El Camino College appearance must be reserved. Tickets are now on sale at the Student Store at $1.50 for the public or $1 with a student activity book.

In Amsterdam, Lotte Goslar's dance parodies were described as "hitting the heart and laughter muscles at the same time."

"ORIGINAL"

European reviews have written that "Lotte Goslar and Ensemble are showing something entirely new and original . . . unprecedented and completely original in art form . . . ending in an enchantingly unforgettable evening."

In Switzerland critics noted "The program is chockful of ideas, humor and wit. Lotte Goslar does not speak all evening, but she says a thousand times more and better what words try to say. She speaks with a twist of the wrist, twinkling of her eye, hidden giggle, or only with a little finger."

Many other praises have been written of Miss Goslar in both the European and American press. The performance lasts for as long as two hours.

Cal-Vet Homes Covered By New Insurance Plan

Veterans purchasing homes through the Department of Veterans Affairs today are "protected by the most economical, full coverage insurance program ever drawn up in California."

This was the statement made yesterday by Joseph M. Farber, director, California Department of Veterans Affairs, as he outlined the program being handled by the department and the National American Insurance Company, largest writers of insurance on homes in California.

"Contrary to popular belief, the State of California, and not the veteran is owner of the property being insured," Farber stated.

DEDICATED

"The Department" he said, is dedicated to arranging the best available insurance for the veterans—and we believe we have scored a ten-strike for them. Last December 1, the Department awarded the exclusive contract to National American. This company's bid represented a potential saving of $5,000,000 to the insured, at the same time offering broader coverage, lower rates and protection unmatched by the unsuccessful bidder — a combine of 238 insurance companies in California.

The individual members of the combine, much to everyone's amazement, came up with identical bids for the program — even to the penny," Farber disclosed. However, each company's bid was slightly over $5 million higher than National American.

Under the National American program, the department is able to offer for the first time to California veterans a homeowners package policy, heretofore only avail-
