

THIRD LECTURE — Dr. Leonard A. Cole, South Bay psychologist formerly on the staff of Los Angeles County Juvenile Hall, will deliver the third in a series of lectures to the members and guests of Torrance Cooperative Nursery School March 19. This third lecture will concern the steps taken by children in their psychological development. Guests are welcome. Torrance Nursery School, Inc., a parent cooperative, combines a preschool for the three to five age group with a workshop in child study for the parent members.

South Bay Psychologist Lectures to Parents

Torrance Cooperative Nursery School welcomes Dr. Leonard A. Cole, South Bay psychologist, Monday evening, March 19, at 7:30 p. m. in the third of his talks on child psychology, to the parent membership and guests at the school, 4558 West 182nd St.

Theming his talks on two important concepts: child's need to trust and the parent's need to combine discipline and understanding in the child's best interest, Dr. Cole has been examining the major problems arising from day-to-day parent-child contacts. Such matters as childhood fears, hostilities and sibling rivalries have been under scrutiny. In his third talk he will consider steps in the child's psychological development. A question and answer period will follow the talk, encouraging the nursery group to further explore matters of special interest.

Torrance Nursery School, whose membership includes families from the entire South Bay area, provides a four day a week morning program for pre-schoolers. It is conducted under auspices of Torrance Unified School System. Membership information may be obtained by calling Mrs. Frederick Stone, FR 5-7128.

GRILLED SAUSAGES

Any hearty sausage grilled over wood charcoal briquets is a satisfying main dish, when served with charcoal baked potatoes. Try the plump, smoky, seasoned wursts of all kinds. Turn with tongs on the cooking rack so as not to pierce the skin. Good go-alongs are red cabbage, coleslaw or kale.
