

"I buy the best meat here!"

My family and I all agree that the meat I buy at Food Giant is wonderful! Eleven years ago, when this market opened, my husband and I were among the first customers—and we've been shopping here ever since! You see, I know that I can always find the very best meat for my family here. Meat is a large part of my food budget and Food Giant's low prices help to keep it balanced. I think our boys and girls are a healthy, happy recommendation for the fine nutrition and eating enjoyment that Food Giant meats have given us!

Man Receives Recognition For Community Contribution

Capt. Clyde Ewing, 16805 S. Yukon, Torrance, and Dr. Morris Rockenmacher, 601 Lucia Ave., Redondo Beach, were two of seven Los Angeles County employees honored this week for outstanding participation in the Red Cross blood program.

Those honored, each of whom have given from three to six gallons of blood since the county employees began their account with the ARC blood program in 1949, were cited for their "unselfish contributions of blood to the health and welfare of this community."

Capt. Ewing of the Forestry and Fire Warden department, and Dr. Rockenmacher, bio-analyst in the clinical laboratory at Harbor General hospital, are both three-gallon donors.

MAJOR ROLE

Los Angeles County employees have played a major role in making the blood program here the largest in the world," Daniel J. Haugh, president of Lockheed Aircraft and chairman of the Red Cross regional blood program, commented.

Supervisor Ernest E. Debs, who joined Red Cross in honoring the men, pointed out that in 1949, county employees gave 2110 pints of blood and in the first seven months of this year they gave 2539 pints. They may go over the 5000 pint mark in 1962, he said.

ADD TO ACCOUNT

In addition to collections held exclusively for county employees, they may add to the group's account with the blood program by participating at community bloodmobiles.

The next visit of the Red Cross mobile collection unit in Torrance is slated for Nov. 29 at the Elk's club.

TB Serious Disease, Needs Stern Measures to Prevent

Is having tuberculosis a crime? In New York City, 15 men with active TB were recently arrested. They were placed in a penitentiary hospital because they refused treatment.

A menace to the community, the 15 men were arrested under a section of the city health code which permits the health department to take action against persons with infectious disease. After modern medical care, when their condition is no longer a threat to the community, they will be discharged from the penitentiary hospital.

These are stern measures, but they are justified. Tuberculosis is a serious, highly infectious disease. A TB patient who coughs up TB germs may be infecting scores of others. Potentially he is more dangerous with a highly contagious disease, such as measles.

In a recent experiment, number of the guinea pigs in the first chamber became infected with TB germs.

The test showed that the tuberculosis germs were carried through the air to the test chamber. The investigators also were able to pinpoint the patient who infected the guinea pigs. In only three days of exposure, one patient alone was responsible for infecting 15 guinea pigs.

This column is sponsored in the interest of better health by your Christmas Seal agency, the Tuberculosis and Health Association of Los Angeles County.

The air from a tuberculosis ward was channeled to an exposure chamber which contained guinea pigs. Another chamber of guinea pigs was set up, just like the first one, except that the air they breathed was irradiated with germ-killing ultra-violet light. A large

Reserve Unit Lists Openings With Navy Seebee Division

A number of paid openings for young men interested in training as mechanics, carpenters, electricians, plumbers, steel workers and equipment operators were announced today.

Lt. Cdr. John Rasmussen of San Pedro, a civil engineer with the U.S. Navy Fuel Depot in San Pedro, said the openings are with the U.S. Naval Reserve Seebee Division.

The unit, according to Rasmussen, meets one weekend each month and training is provided through professional classes and practical work projects at nearby military bases and at the YMCA and Boy Scout camps.

Promotion and retirement credits and pay are obtained while learning. Students in school also are deferred from active military duty while participating.

Further information may be secured by calling Rasmussen, TE 1-3918, after 5 p.m.

Opening Slated For Headquarters

Grand opening of the Nixon for Governor Wilmington Headquarters was held at 2 p.m. Saturday, announced Ray Olsen and Richard Iverson, community co-chairman of the Wilmington Nixon for Governor Committee.

A report on the opening of the 1378 Avalon Blvd. headquarters was made personally to Richard Nixon at a recent progress and strategy conference.

The headquarters, centrally located at Pacific Coast Highway and Avalon Blvd. is staffed by volunteers under the direction of Mrs. Floyd Barb, activities chairman of the local Nixon campaign.

Volunteers from the ranks of registered Democrats and Independents have already indicated an interest to work for Dick Nixon in Wilmington, Olsen stated.

"These volunteers have made it clear that they are impressed with former Vice President Nixon's record and equally unimpressed with his opponent's, Olsen added.

Persons interested in volunteering in the campaign may drop by the headquarters or call Mrs. Barb at TE 4-5014.

Literature and information is available at the headquarters.

Instant Bucks Drawing Held

"Instant Bucks" valid merchandise certificates, will be given to eight persons whose names are drawn the last Friday of every month at North Torrance Shopping Center.

First award will be a $25 certificate; second, $15; third, $10. Five $5 awards will be given other winners.

These "Instant Bucks" may be spent anytime at any participating businesses. Shoppers may enter as often as they wish by filling in entry blanks available at most stores in the center and depositing them in a contest box.

J. W. Skues, president of the association, stated, "The response and interest in the first drawing proved beyond all expectation. At the next drawing Sept. 28 a larger attendance can be expected. Added attractions include a fall fashions' showing and pie-eating contest."

The casual elegance of fall's fashions will be well defined by the North Torrance Shopping Center Apparel Retailers, at the second monthly drawing for "Instant Bucks" winners Sept. 28 at 8 p.m. Their fall fashions' showing will be presented at 7:30 p.m.

Following the drawing of "Instant Bucks" awards an "old-fashioned" pie-eating contest for youngsters is planned. The winner will receive a champion-sized cake by the bakery shop at the center.
