

Music for Christmas

This speaker will receive hi-fidelity music through your household wiring...

from this 6-speaker G-E stereo...

when plugged into any wall-socket anywhere in your home!

General Electric's Home Music Distribution System is perhaps the most significant innovation in the recorded music field since stereo. Here's how it works:

A tiny FM transmitter can be installed in three models of 1963 General Electric Stereo consoles. Its signal is carried through the standard household wiring. The receiver speaker above will play phonograph or radio music from the console wherever the speaker is plugged in.

Home Music Distribution System heads the list of unique innovations you get only from General Electric. It's available now—on the Custom Decorator series (above), Barrington and Sutton.

The Custom Decorator combines six speakers with a Dual Channel Stereo Amplifier to provide full range high fidelity sound reproduction. Features a General Electric designed and built AM/FM/FM-Stereo Tuner, Ceramic Stereo Cartridge with Diamond Stylus. Take your choice of four furniture styles—Danish Modern Walnut, Early American Maple, Provincial Cherry and French Provincial Antique White, each in genuine hardwood veneer.
