DOORS STILL CLOSED TO THE PUBLIC? YES!

AND HERE'S WHY:

Eight and a half years ago, CERTI-BOND was born. CERTI-BOND was born with these ideas in mind: to cut advertising and promotional costs by catering to a membership group; to eliminate loss leaders and concentrate on low EVERYDAY prices; to reduce the cost of living to the consumer by cutting all unnecessary overhead and expenses; to let the eligible consumer be a member of an organization with rights and privileges never found in ordinary store-to-customer relationships; to be sure that members and only members could obtain all of their needs at the lowest possible everyday prices; and to secure the services of merchants and buyers who would meet the rigid requirements set by our organization.

In eight and a half years, CERTI-BOND has not changed its principles. Being one of the very first membership department stores and being extremely successful very early, it was only natural that others would copy the idea.

But copying the idea obviously was not enough! After many have come and gone, CERTI-BOND is happy to say we are once again the ONLY membership department store in the area.

Eight and a half years from now, our doors will still be closed to the public.
