

Torrance Girls Rate High in Nursing Tests

Vocational nursing graduates of Harbor College taking recent state licensing examinations maintained the high rating that the school had won in previous examinations.

Of 29 schools taking the examinations Harbor College ranked fifth. The average score for California was 525.29. Twenty-three Harbor graduates averaged 567.65, according to information received from the State Board of Vocational Nurse Examiners by Roberta Lindberg, chairman of the Nursing Division.

Of the 23 graduates, 10 are from Torrance:

Anna K. Carr, Letha M. Cole, Mary C. Dominguez, Florence F. Edwards, Sue S. Herman, Barbara A. Jordan, Eva L. Kimpel, Amelia Mora, Dorothy M. Upton.

Ruby C. Fowler and Vicki L. Vincenti of Lomita and Diane E. Pace of Harbor

City were also in the class. Others come from Wilmington, San Pedro, Gardena, Manhattan Beach, Long Beach and Los Angeles.

Harbor College also had the fourth largest number of candidates taking the examination. All of the graduates are now employed in local health agencies.

Although a registered nursing program is being started at Harbor College in the fall, the vocational nursing program will not be cut back in any manner, Miss Lindberg indicated.

"There is an ever-increasing need for vocational nurses in the Harbor area," Miss Lindberg stated. "The number of jobs available is always greater than the number of graduates."

Further information may be obtained by phoning Miss Lindberg at TE 4-8581.
