El Camino Instructor Wins Fellowship

Miss Eileen E. Lothamor, El Camino English instructor, has been named recipient of an American Association of University Women Educational Foundation fel-lowship for 1963-64, announced Mrs. Michael Lesh, president of the Manhattan Beach Branch, AAUW, today.

Miss Lothamer, a doctoral candidate at the University of California at Los Angeles, was granted a $3,000 fellowship for advanced research at UCLA and at the Huntington, Clark, and Los Angeles City libraries.

She will study the writing of Samuel Butler, Victorian novelist, exploring the thesis that his writing reveals an attempt to formulate a new and workable religious philosophy to balance the theories of Darwin.

A resident of Manhattan Beach, Miss Lothamor has been an instructor in English at El Camino College since 1959. She earned the bachelor's and master's degree at UCLA, where she was a teaching assistant from 1955-58 and the recipient of a university fellowship in 1958-59.

Miss Lothamor has recently been engaged in a writing project, devising a series of programmed materials in English grammar for use in upper elementary and junior high schools.

A native of Ohio, she is a member of Phi Beta Kappa and Pi Lambda Theta, hon-

The AAUW Educational Foundation has awarded 114 fellowships - 59 national and 55 international - to gifted graduate women scholers for advanced study and research in 1964-65. Five other Californians are among those honored with Miss Lothamor: Miss Harriet Brodey, Berkeley; Mrs. William I. Cohen, Palo Alto; Miss Margarettan, Beverly Hills; Mrs. John C. McGuire, Modesto; and Miss Marcia Montin, Walnut Creek.

International fellowship recipients include five African women teachers from Ghana, Liberia, Nigeria, Sierra Leone, and Tanganyika. Their fellowships represent the second year of a special program inaugurated by the Foundation to bring women teachers of developing African countries to the United States for further preparation in their fields and for training in leadership.

The fellowships program. is supported by yearly contributions of branch members throughout the United States and Guam and by income from an endowment currently valued at fund nearly $4,000,000.

The Manhattan Beach Branch, under the leadership of Mrs. Lowell Dunham, fellowships chairman, donated $760 to the fund in 1962-63. The donation included a $500 gift named for Mrs. Ruben Jimenez, branch charter member who is currently the chairman of the California State Division, AAUW, social and economic issues committee.

A Manhattan Beach Branch member, Dr. Lenore Salveneschi, was the recipient of a 1956-67 Association fellowship. She did postdoctoral study in Italy on the subject of fourteenth cen-
