COOK OF THE WEEK

Winning recipe in this week's holiday contest is one for Chanukah cookies submitted by Mrs. Stephen Sampson of 4210 Carmen St. Shaped like blue and white spinning tops, the cookies symbolize the dreddles children play with during the Festival of Lights.

Recipes for Christmas entertaining are currently being sought. A check for $5 will go to the winning Cook of the Week. Entries should be addressed to FOOD EDITOR, Torrance Press, 3238 W. Sepulveda Blvd.

CHANUKAH COOKIES
1 cup white shortening
1 cup confectioner's sugar
¼ tsp. salt
2¼ cups flour
few drops almond extract (optional) few drops BLUE food coloring

Cream shortening, sugar and salt thoroughly. Add flour and then flour all at once. Mix, first with a spoon and then with fingers, squeezing the dough through the fingers. Knead it in the bowl until it is completely integrated, and all flour is absorbed.

Leave half the dough in the bowl and put the other half in a separate bowl. Add the BLUE food coloring to the second half. Mix the coloring in thoroughly until it is a good shade of blue. Add a few more drops if necessary.

Put each half of the dough on a separate sheet of waxed paper 12x12. Make each half of the dough a ten-inch roll. Seal by folding the waxed paper, sandwich fashion. Twist each end to securely contain the dough.

Refrigerate for one hour. Now, cut the blue roll lengthwise in half. Put the whole roll of white dough on top of the cut side of the blue and sandwich it in with the other half of blue. Close up the waxed paper as before, twisting the ends of the paper. Roll the dough back and forth as though it were a rolling pin.

Refrigerate for one hour, then slice ¼ inch thick. Bake 375 deg. on ungreased cookie sheet for seven minutes. If the cookies aren't allowed to brown, they will retain the true blue and white color.

Watch the cookies during the last two minutes of baking. Some ovens are uneven, or inaccurate.
