TODAY'S TEENAGERS

By SHARON MONDSCHNEIN

What are you going to do during the two weeks you are away from the book pile?

At the ringing of the last bell of the day, I am sure that a large number of students will make a wild dash for the beach carrying a surfboard in one hand and a comb in the other. These surfers and grimees will probably spend most of their waking hours in the water in their wet suits.

Other students will also surf-but in moderation. Visits to the library, homework, and dating will all have their time during vacation.

Education comes in many forms. You don't have to keep your eyes glued to books throughout the vacation to acquire knowledge. There are many historic places of interest to visit. San Simeon Castle, Centinella Adobe Museum, and throughout the state are just various missions scattered a few of them.

If your funds are limited for travelling you can take a trip to Mexico via the Los Angeles County Museum. And think of it, you can be there in less than one hour. The exhibit will be at the museum through December and should be very interesting.

Local points of interest include the Palos Verdes petrified wood field, the light-house which offers tours to the public once a week, the Cabrillo-Marine Life Museum, and Wayfarer's Chapel (the glass church). You can also spend a quite day fishing off the Redondo pier. There are boat rides available, too.

Should you have any extra cash, you may wish to go to Disneyland, Marineland, or Pacific Ocean Park. For a nominal fee you can view famed movie stars created from wax at the Wax Museum in Anaheim.

Isn't it about time for your annual visit to the doctor? Don't put it off—now is the time to go and get your bill of health. The dentist may also be awaiting for you. Maybe you made the appointment a few months ago—don't forget it.

Movies, art exhibits, amusement parks, and the teenage nightclubs are all forms of entertainment for dates.

Of course we will always have the beaches with their rolling waves and sparkling sand, which stretch all the way down our coast.

Remember though—everything in moderation.

TORRANCE GIRL NAMED USO 'DOLL OF THE MONTH'

Miss Darlene Olguin of Torrance, "USO Doll of the Month," announced today that the USO's semi-formal Holiday Hop will be held at the San Pedro YMCA, 921 South Beacon St., on Thursday, Dec. 19.

Mrs. Allan Lind of Palos Verdes Estates, Canteen chairman of the USO-Marbor Area Operating Committee, says, "The Senior Volunteers are going all-out to prepare an appetizing buffet for our servicemen. The highlight of the evening will be the Annual Volunteer Recognition Ceremony at 9 p.m."

Commander John S. Lane, Staff Legal Officer for the United States Naval Base at Long Beach, will present awards to groups and individuals who have made outstanding contributions during the past year.

"The Ackseents" band of Wilmington and San Pedro have rearranged their heavy schedule to provide an evening of entertainment for military personnel separated from their families at Christmas time.

Banning, Washington, and Narbonne High Schools trained these talented young musicians. Al Macias of San Pedro, manager and originator of the band, says, "As a group they really click."

Ruben Leal and Art Mascarnas star on tenor sax. Art's younger brother, Willie, has often been called the best teenage drummer in the Harbor Area. Johnny Montoya, Cesar Delgado, and Julian Sedillo comprise the guitar section. Vocalist Freddie Sprewell and James Faulkner complete the band.

All active-duty military personnel are cordially invited to share the Yuletide festivities at USO's Holiday Hop. Miss Helen Hibbard of Redondo Beach, a leader in United Way Residential Campaigning, says, "We'll do our best to make everyone welcome—so maybe home won't seem quite so far away."

Helen and other USO Junior Volunteers—Mary Miller and Penny Costa of Torrance, Peggy Seward of Wilmington, Vivian Viola of San Pedro, and Treva Weyer of Anaheim—will decorate the YMCA gymnasium with the Christmas spirit of "Good Will to All Men."

NEW STAFF MEMBER

Miss Diane Aitken, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Leonard Albert of Torrance, has been named a member of the staff of The Euterpean, literary magazine at Marymount College.

WATCH CHILDREN
