read Ann Landers — that something has to be wrong with a person who wants to read about other people's problems. According to him it's like peeking through a keyhole. He also says there is something sadistic about people who enjoy reading about trouble all the time. He pointed out that last week you wrote about a deaf and dumb beggar, a mean mother-in-law, a retarded child and a little kid who had to wear second-hand clothes.

What shall I say to my brother when he teases me about reading your column? I would surely appreciate it if you could supply me with a good answer.—LANDERS FAN AND PROUD OF IT

Dear Proud Fan: The next time your brother needles you about reading my column ask him how come he knows everything that's in it?

Dear Ann Landers: I am a 44-year-old divorcee, and much too old for this sort of problem. I accepted a job as a receptionist, secretary and bookkeeper for a friend who has had severe financial reverses. I'm working at a fraction of my former salary because I want to help him get on his feet. He has a lovely wife and family and truly deserves a break.

Our most important customer is an octopus. He comes in several times a week, follows me around the office like a puppy-dog, and makes passes left and right. The louse is getting bolder and bolder by the day and I'm sick of it.

If he weren't so important to the business I'd give him a crack in the mouth and call it a day, but we need his account.

How can I get him to leave me alone and still keep him friendly—at the business level?—TIED OF

RUNNING AROUND THE DESK

Dear Tired of Running: If the entire future of the business hinges on the account of this eight-handed idiot you might as well lock the door now.

The man didn't give the firm his account because of you—and he probably will not take his account away if you chill him. So go ahead—and let the teeth fall where they may.
