Colonel's Southern Fried Chicken Celebrates Grand Opening in Carson

A month of grand opening events at the new Colonel's Southern Fried Chicken began Thursday with a dollar of free chicken to be given with the purchase of the house specialty. Paul Garofalo, manager, said the restaurant, at 232 Carson St., will be open from 11:30 a.m. to 9 p.m. daily with telephone orders filled by calling 835-0147. Jack Sands, formerly with the Gardena store, will serve as assistant manager.

Colonel's Southern Fried Chicken is made from a time-tested recipe using non-precooked, par-broiled nor French fried for convenience or speed in serving. Chickens are fresh, plump broilers cut in a special way and dipped in milk and egg then rolled in flour containing many different proportionately blended spices and herbs. Among other menu features are barbecued spare-ribs, prepared from choice

New Scouts, Recruiters Will See Football Game

All Cubs, Scouts, and Explorers from the Los Angeles Area Council who recruit a new boy into scouting this fall have been invited to attend the SC-Washington State football game Saturday, Oct. 31.

The invitation was extended this week by the University of Southern California. The University also said each boy who joins scouting this fall will receive a ticket to the Saturday game.

The game, USC's homecoming contest, will be played at the Los Angeles Memorial Coliseum.

MULVEY WHITE, vice-president of the university, said

Applications Due for Navy ROTC Exams

Applications for the Navy's annual NROTC qualifications test are now available from senior counselors at the city's four high schools. The national examination will be administered Dec. 12 to all eligible male students.

Test results, personal interviews, physical examinations, and aptitude test results will be used to evaluate potential midshipmen in the Navy ROTC program. More than 2,000 young men will be given college educations under the program.

Registration for the test ends Nov. 20. Informational bulletins and applications are available from the senior counselors or from the U. S. Navy Recruiting Station, 1520 Cravens Ave.

Successful applicants receive financial aid for four years of college. The aid includes tuition, books, uniforms, miscellaneous expenses, and a $50 per month re-
