Better Jury Panels Can Improve Traffic Safety

Would you want to be tried for a traffic violation by a jury made up of people who have nothing else to do?

City Prosecutor Charles F. "Monte" Catterlin posed that question for the Torrance Safety Council Monday.

Catterlin, who previously has advocated the abolition of jury trials in traffic violations, told the group jury panels too often are made up of people who have nothing else to do because many people are reluctant to leave their jobs for jury service.

* * *

"MORE AND more we are getting the retired, the unemployed, and the housewife with no children to watch," Catterlin said. "I would like to see an active group of younger people in our jury system."

Catterlin told the Safety Council that the responsibility of jurors is to listen to both sides of a case and decide on the facts. Often, he added, other considerations enter the picture when jurors begin to discuss a case.

He said a higher quality jury panel would help to improve traffic safety because jurors would be able to decide cases on their merits and not on some side consideration which has no bearing on the specific case.

* * *

ONE EXAMPLE, he said, is that of persons cited to speeding who subsequently argue they were just keeping up with traffic. In such cases, Catterlin said, if the person cited was speeding he is guilty of a violation. Yet, jurors often agree with the defendant in such a case.

Catterlin also suggested members of the Safety Council visit the Torrance Municipal Court during traffic court to see how cases are handled. Numerous students have been participating in a study of traffic court through field trips to the courtroom, he said.

Baptists to Hear Talks On 'Living'

"Real Living" will be the theme of a week's series of meetings which began Sunday at the First Baptist Church, 2118 W. Carson St.

Dr. Curtis R. Nims, Evangelist for Southern California Baptist Convention, will be the speaker for the 7 p.m. meetings and he will discuss the necessary adjustments to life in the space age.

The need to change or alter the complex problems of home and society has been cited by the Rev. Robert H. Coburn, pastor of the First Baptist Church. It is Mr. Coburn's opinion that people today are not really living but merely existing and tolerating situations.
