Christmas Shoppers Delight

Mothers 'Country Fair'

Doors will open on Sun-day morning, Dec. 5, at 7 o'clock for the Nativity Mothers Club Country Fair to be staged at the Nativity Annex, offering the public an opportunity to shop for something different in Christmas decorations.

* *

The mothers have held workshops every Thursday morning for the past several weeks turning out a fantas-tic array of glittering decor-ations. In the variety of items offered are gold topiary trees, medieval castle centerpieces, decorative hanging lamps, Christmas trees and wreaths, waste-baskets, desk sets, soap containers, "tote" bags, pot holders, aprons, knitted slippers, toys, flower arrange-ments and even puppets.

The shopper will also find an assortment of cookies, cakes, jellies, jams and other delicacies all made by club members.

Mothers Club members will be on hand to assist the shoppers and then serve them with coffee as they rest from their shopping tour. The sale will be in full swing until 2 p.m.

Proceeds from the Country Fair will be used to pur-chase "extras" for Nativity school.

Riviera Garden Club's Traditional Dinner Set

Riviera Garden Club will herald the holiday season with its annual Christmas Progressive Din-ner Party on Sunday Dec. 5.

Mr. and Mrs. John Johnson of Avenida Ateszada will host the pre-dinner cocktail party.

The main course, beef stroganoff, will be served at the Frank Carroll home on Via la Selva.

Club members will then take a short walk to the home of Mr. and Mrs. Stanley Dunn where des-sert will be served and caroling and a gift exchange will top off the gala evening.

The Garden Club will also continue its tradition of bringing gifts to be distributed to the men patients at Harbor General Hospital.
