Your Right to Know is the Key to All Your Liberties

the role of the Los Angeles County government as it relates to the state, city, and school administrations. Supervisor Chace represents a large portion of Torrance and all of the coastal areas from the Ventura County line to Orange County south of Long Beach. He is a former member of the Long Beach Board of Education and a former mayor of Long Beach.)

GUEST EDITORIAL Role of County Aired

BY SUPERVISOR BURTON W. CHACE Fourth Supervisorial District, L.A. County

As Supervisor for the Fourth Supervisorial District of Los Angeles County, it has been my distinct privilege for more than twelve years to represent the people of the coastal area of the County including a substantial portion of the City of Torrance.

During these years many changes have taken place within the geographical boundaries of the Fourth District, and I have attempted to keep in close contact with the people in meeting the problems of growth and expansion which have occurred.

This growth has resulted in construction of county facilities in excess of $5,000,000 to provide Torrance residents with court, probation, and other services near their homes.

I have found during more than 30 years in public life that letters from constituents provide me with the best day-to-day methed of keeping in touch with requirements and problems of the district.

Most often expressed in these letters is the problem of taxes in this growing sector of Southern California in which we live.

The rising costs of all phases of government are of deep concern to any elected official and, like yourselves, all elected officials are themselves taxpayers who must share with you any increased cost in government.

* It is of considerable concern to me that approximately 50 per cent of individual tax bills must go for public schools, with only 25 per cent each for all other County and City services.

Perhaps this means our schools should be the greatest target for economies, and of course, the Board of Education in each community has control of school budgets

Apparently very little opposition is expressed at budget or tax times relative to school board expenditures

The County of Los Angeles, as relates to your tax bills, is merely a collection and disbursement agency for the educational portion of your tax bill.

Like yourselves, I also am strongly sympathetic to the increasing importance of providing educational facilities for our youngsters and, as a former Board of Education member, I recognize the increasing importance of maximum education to meet demands for today's opportunities by our future citizens

At the same time, it should be pointed out that 93 cents of each tax dollar spent by the County is spent as a mandatory requirement under State Law.

The Board of Supervisors is required to budget for such activities and services as welfare, police, fire, courts, probation and many others.

As a Supervisor, I wish to note that the County is merely a subdivision of our State government in California. As such, it is necessary for the County to obtain permission from the State Legislature in order to develop legal methods of providing additional revenues to meet the many demands of a growing area such as ours:

The State Legislature continually directs the counties to furnish many additional services without making provision for necessary renumeration.

Many of these services are the result of sound and practical programs sought by responsible groups and individuals. These would include broadening of welfare programs, public health and welfare legislation, educational measures, etc., all of which stem from an awareness of certain basic needs to make California and Los Angeles County a better place in which to live.

did not have an old one to rebuild. However, they did have $750,000 which they The County, however, in order to meet these demands for added services must necessarily find ways regarded as a harbor im-By CHARLES E. CHAPEL Assemblyman, 46th District ement.

SACRAMENTO REPORT The Pier-Building Art

pier

the

The people who were in office in 1962, as Mayor and Councilmen, agreed in In 1954 and 1955, the old er at Manhattan Beach and Councilmen, agreed in writing that they wanted a new pier. This was impor-tant because it is not con-sidered good taste to give an incorporated city a pier if it is not wanted. The problem was where to get the money because I did not receive the written re-sponses from the city offihad deteriorated so much that the City of Manhattan Beach caused its employes to erect barriers at the pier entrance and signs warning the public that it was not safe to even walk on the pier. Late in 1955, the then Mayor and the City Counsponses from the city offi-cials until late in 1962, long after the budget-session had cilmen wrote to me that they would like to have the pier rebuilt at State exended.

Since 1963 was a regular or general-session year, it would require a separate appropriation law to obtain money for a new pier. This is not an easy to be a set of the s During the one-month budget session of 1956, I in-troduced a budget bill pro-viding that the State of California should appropri-ate out of the general funds of the State the sum of $240,000 for the reconstrucis not an easy type of law to get enacted in California, hence I scouted around to find some fund that could be tapped. $240,000 for the reconstruc-tion of the municipal pier at Manhattan Beach. My bill passed, that is, it was incor-porated into the budget that year and the money was Fortunately, I knew the key members of the State Wildlife Conservation Board Wildlife Conservation Board and they agreed that a new pier at Hermosa Beach might conserve wild life. They wanted to know what the pier would cost. This re-quired the City Engineer and the City Manager of Hermosa Beach to do con-siderable research but they spent under close supervi-sion. Much to the surprise of everyone, the result was of everyone, the result was a pier which was almost en-tirely new. In accordance with the wording of my budget bill, the pier was turned over to Los Angeles County for op-cration and maintenance Hermosa Beach to do con-siderable research but they finally announced that the kind of a pier they wanted would cost one and one-half million dollars ($1,500,000), Remembering that the city already had $750,000 avail-oble for any and bar. Los Angeles County for op-eration and maintenance. On the day that the pier was dedicated and opened to public use, Meredith Wil-son, author and composer of "The Music Man," direct-ed the Los Angeles County able for navigation and har-bor improvement, I asked the California Wildlife Coned the Los Angeles County Band in the playing of se-lections from his famous servation Board to let Her-mosa Beach have $750,000 productions, such as "Good-night, my Someone," and the very spirited march, "Seventy-Six Trombones." for pier construction. This was done in 1963. The pier was almost entirely com-pleted late in 1964 and has The good people of Her-mosa Beach, who are right-fully proud of their beach, also wanted a pier but they did not beau or old one to talent and energy, he took on a certain polish as a been in use daily since early in 1965.

Enjoys a Short Revival

In both instances, the con-ate. And a literary flare and self-confidence, too. struction of the piers was the result of 100 per cent In the early 1920s he be-

HERB CAEN SAYS:

San Francisco Finally Gets Its Playboy Club

MOVIE DIRECTOR VIN-CENTE Minnelli (one of CENTE Minneil (one of Judy Garland's exces) breez, ed into S.F. for a short rest, and he's getting it — Children's Hospital. Emergency appendectomy the s a me night . . . You bring the duck: Carol Channing, with Hubby Charles Low in tow Hubby Charles Lowe in tow, had dinner at Ondine in Sausalito and ordered nothing but a hot plate. She toted three Thermos bottles filled with lamb stew, carrots and spinach, because she eats only her own pre-parations where'er she goes — a trick she learned from Lunt and Fontanne. "I've Lunt and Fontanne, "I've done over 800 performances of 'Dolly' without missing one," she asides, "so I must be doing SOMEthing right" ... Sportsnote: Things must be getting back to normal in the Dominican Benublic in the Dominican Republic. Juan Marichal, who heads for his homeland in a few days, hears that the island's baseball leagues are resum-ing play . . . A local auto-mogul is as pushed out of shape as Silly Putty over Willie Mays' admission to the Concordia Club (the motor-man has been trying to got in for yrs. to a chorus of bongs); by the bye, Willie, who passed the elections board, still has to be voted on by the membership and board of directors, but the board of directors, but the board of directors, but the odds are 1000-1 (and even though it's dambwell none of my business, may I say that Willie Mays is one of those rare people — a life enhancer).

ROYCE BRIER

no longer need feel ashamed in the company of her sister cosmopolitan cit-ies. We now have a Playboy Club, which closer with Even the illuminated wall photos of bare-breasted All-American beauties seem wholesome as Mom's apple cheeks. When I left, my libi-do still registering zero, I noticed a carful of cops parked across the street, keeping a watchful eye on the club. They'd have been better off casing somepiace Club, which, along with major sports, proper cul-ture, a mounting crime rate and lousy traffic, is an ab-solute Must for any metro-polis worthy of the name. better off casing someplace really racy, like the YMCA.

I wouldn't say that the building is the prettiest in town, but enither it is the ugliest. "The first plans were horrible," said Hugh Hefner, the young man who first discovered that bunny thymes with money. "One first discovered that bunny rhymes with money. "One of those terrible concrete slabs. At least I got the place built in red brick, which sort of fits." An imposing brick fit-house it is, and the 61 Bun-nies on duty are built to match. They float through the five-level layout with the greatest of tease, but of the greatest of tease, but of course you may only look, not touch and never (if you're a member) date. The lights are low, the drinks are decent, the atmosphere is sort of dated hipness: young men whose neckties are a trifle too thin, snap-ping fingers to recorded Sinatra, Previn and Basie. IT'S ALL SO innocent and clean-cut (especially the Bunnies in their costumes). Hefner, thin, drawn, tense, sucked on his pipe, sipped a bourbon and Coke, discussed politics and sexual mores with great seriousness and floated through the hancer). crowded rooms like the 会 会 会 Great Gatsby — with it but WITH IT: San Francisco not part of it.

Red China Would Destroy

with Rita Tushingtam..., Alfred Wright, a Sports II-lustrated editor (and inci-dentally the husband of Joan Fontaine), is here writ-ing a piece on how sports are REALLY more impor-tant then publics on the Cal tant than politics on the Cal campus — and the last writ-er who reached that far for er who reached that far for an angle is still in traction ... L.A. Philharmonic maes-tro Zubin Hehta at the St. Francis, talking about his fiancee, Met Opera Soprano Teresa Stratas: "She's terri-ble — she can't sing at ALL!" There's a man who doesn't know the MEANING of the word Stratasfear.

Even the illuminated wall

ADD SIGHTEMS that

stick: the rough, tough, leather-jacketed motorcycle

types walking out of the theater with tears in their eyes — after seeing the touching "Leather Boys," with Rita Tushingtam . . .

doesn't know the MEANING of the word Stratasfear ... Elaine Stuart, an exSF. State coed who's now a Play-boy Bunny, telling all, and perhaps a bit too much, to her old school paper: "The job and the responsibility are real, but the atmosphere is fake. The whole thing is a simulated house party." Okay Elaine. Turn in your tail.

alist China, a charter mem-

U.N., Goldberg Asserts While there is much to has made prior conditions Nations must expel Nationbe said for recognition of for acceptance of membership which would destroy Red China, and for resumption of trade with the Chinese mainland, there is nothing to be said for admission of Red China to the United Nations at present. The annual question has noted comparable Peking pronouncements. These quotations are de-terminative, quite a s i d e from generalities as to Red China's antagonism to the fundamental principles and purpose of the United Nations.

ber of the organization. Rethe United Nations if met. gardless of an American's by subjecting it to Peking's will. To establish this faropinion of the Chiang re-gime on Formosa, the United States can neither flung charge, Mr. Goldberg cited the position of the Red Chinese Foreign Minister, Chen Li, in September, and honorably nor as a practical matter consent to this condi-tion for Red China's admission But, the Ambassador then quotes Chen: "If things really turn out that way (ex-pulsion of Nationalist China), the question would still remain unsolved."

* Chen's conditions are categorical. First, the United golden boy, or the last ro-mantic, than a money-trou-bled exponent of show business. He remained "the em bodiment of day dreams," as the author says, "the public manifestations of pri-still remain unsolved." Goldberg continues quot-ing Chen: The United Na-tions must "undergo a thor-ough reorganization and re-form." Among other things, the U.N. must rescind its resolution condemning Red China and North Korea in the 1950s conflict, and adopt a resolution condemning the United States as the aggres-sor in the Korean War.

But this is not all. Pursu-ant to Red Chinese member-ship, the U.N. Charter must be revised, whereupon "all imperialist puppets should be expelled."

Mr. Goldberg rightly said this means many indepen-dent and sovereign nations represented "in this hall" could be subject to expul-sion, the definition of "im-periality numpers" perialist puppets" being left to Peking.

The Ambassador did not mention a somewhat wry ntingency inherent in

On Thanksgiving Day, 1964, while waiting for Mrs. Chapel to cook the dinner for our relatives, I drove down to Hermosa Beach and looked at the pier, which was still under con-struction L got out of my struction. I got out of my old Ford and stood at the edge of the beach, looking at the steel girders of the 4 4 4 A man came up to me and asked: "Where did the Wild Life Conservation Board get the $750,000 it gave to Hermosa Beach as half the cost of building that pier?" "From the State's share of hore-racing just been debated before the United Nations Assembly, and United States Ambassa-

State money for both piers

because the piers were open to the people of the entire State. There is no charge for admission to the piers and no unreasonable re-strictions on their use and

* * *

On Thanksgiving Day,

WILLIAM HOGAN

Richard Halliburton's heroes were Lord Byron and the poet Rupert Brooke. A

Memphis boy of abundant

Princeton undergradu-

was

mile

enjoyment.

pier.

dor Goldberg delivered a masterly treatise in opposi-tion. The most fervent advo-State's share of horse-racing income," I told him quite truthfully. cate of admission was Halim The man grunted and walked away. The reason he grunted is that he helped pay for that pier by betting on horses at the tracks. Budo of Albania, and Soviet Delegate Fedorenko sup-ported him in cooler vein. In effect, Ambassador Goldberg averred Red China mercial.

Halliburton Traveled a

Royal Road to Romance

people. Also that vicarious escape is eminently com-

His "bumptious juvenil-ity" paid off at the rate of $70,000 a year by the time and means in which to offset the costs of rendering such services

This past year in particular was a year of substantially increased costs as related to your County government self-supporting through passage of State legisla-were specifically designed to alleviate the already overburdened taxpayer bearing the cost of government at the level of real estate taxation.

It was our attempt to make each County department self-supporeing through passage of State legislation putting the service charges directly on the beneficiary rather than partially subsidized by property owners.

Despite a well-defined County program, which proposed such tax items as cigarette taxes, county fee boosts, etc., none of the tax relief measures was ap-proved by the legislature.

Nevertheless, I am convinced that the home owner cannot continue to shoulder the heavy property tax burden. I intend to make every effort to obtain State support for alternate revenue sources which must be found to provide a more equitable basis for the many governmental services demanded by our American way of life!

6

not use for any pur whatever pose whatever except for "navigation and harbor im-provement." I decided that a new might not help difference, and other a new pier might not help navigtion but it could be city employes. It was possible to obtain

Morning Report:

As in every war since the beginning of time, I'm sure both sides in Viet Nam would be happy to make peace. Tomorrow afternoon would suit both Washington and Hanoi just fine. There's only one small difficulty: who is going to win the peace?

We would be happy to clear out if we were sure South Viet Nam would remain outside the Chinese Communist circle. And Hanoi would be happy to stop shooting if it were sure South Viet Nam went Communist.

In recent days, there have been peace reports some good and some not so good-from Paris, Hanoi, Moscow, Vienna, and Bucharest. Personally, I'm still waiting for a kind word from Peking.

Abe Mellinkoff

far less complicated than the one we know. The young man's deeds were wildly audacious and roman-tic. He swam the Hellespont; retraced the routes of Ulys-ses, Cortez, Alexander, and Hannibal. He bought slaves CO in Timbuctoo and climbed the Matterhorn for no other reason, he said, than to enable a companion to spit a Halliburton wrote about these and many equally flamboyant feats in a series of best - selling books. Through the 1920s and '30s, these and his lectures turned him into a vastly romantic figure, if something less than Byron. The intelli-gentsia never took him seriously. He might have writ-ten better books, if he had tried. But Halliburton was shrewd enough to realize that life is dreary for most Halliburton was 26. He spent just about everything before he vanished, on his last hurrah, aboard a Chin-ese junk in the Pacific en route from Hong Kong to San Francisco's World Fair in 1939.

Was Halliburton an authentic symbol of his times, or a marvelous fake? Jona-than Root, the San Franciswriter and journalist, analyzes the young man and his tinseled career in a b i o g r a p h y, "Halliburton: The Magnificent Myth." He was a symbol of his age, Root shows in this spirited, workmanlike study. He is a literary Douglas Fairbanks, apparently fearless, as he swam the Panama Canal, awash with alligators, ty-phoid, sharks and barra-cuda. (He paid for his passage through the locks on the same basis as ships — according to tonnage). is another Halliburton ad-But as the world changed, in Spain and Ethiopa, and moved toward World War II, venture, the self-portrait he never got around to writing.

Halliburton became less the public manifestations of pri-vate fancies." He had some heavyweight admirers, in-cluding novelist Gertrude Atherton, who, when sor his-ticates ridiculed the boy ad-venturer, said: "People who criticize Bichard are inve criticize Richard are just jealous." With the hard facts of age and commercial exploitation moving in on his romantic image, Halliburton retained an houest point of view. Once, after an extravagant

Chen's dictate: The Soviet Union could be subject to expulsion within Peking's attitude in the past year of Asiatic schism, that the So-viet Union is sometimes a conspirator with the United States to dominate the world at other times an world, at other times an "imperialist puppet" of the United States in the Viet Nam affair.

Nam affair. Mr. Goldberg also quoted Premier Chou En-lai as say-ing that "all" Africa is ripe for revolution. He suggested dryly that Chou thus invites sovereign African states out-side the remaining colonial areas to participate in their own overthrow. But Chen is quite suffi-

But Chen is quite sufficient to paint a comprehen-sive picture of Red China's price for membership. The price is U.N. suicide. In our Halliburton: The Magnificent Myth. By Jonathan Root. Coward-McCann; 278 pp.; illus.; $5.50. jargon he, Chen, has got to be kidding. But he isn't.

in in lecture introduction, the em-barrassed adventurer an-swered, "I'm none of these things; I'm just a little boy playing Indian." Root manages to evoke koot manages to evoke the atmosphere of another age in this account of one of yesterday's herces. It is a book that avid readers of Halliburton's own books, and there must have been millions — will ond ab. millions — will find ab-sorbing stuff. In a sense it