

Minority Areas May Get More State Aid

By VINCENT THOMAS
 Assemblyman, 68th District
 The Space Age demands of one fundamental thing, an educated citizenry capable of working effectively with our wildly expanding volume of knowledge. The extent to which a significant segment of our people is educationally disadvantaged is the extent of the danger that we may fall behind economically because we lack people trained to the limit of their capabilities.

The troubles all parts of the United States have been enduring because our racial minorities are escalating their struggle to achieve equality have heavily underlined the urgency of improving their educational opportunities quickly. The exploding Watts riots of last summer shocked all of California into agreement that immediate action is direly needed.

The report of the Governor's special study commission on Watts emphasized the facts that the underlying causes of the riots include the extremely low rate of literacy among the residents, poor pre-school training of youngsters, and high rate of school drop-outs. These findings only echoed those developed by the Assembly Education Committee at its hearings on the educational problems of the Watts area which were held last October.

THE COMMITTEE report recommends a six-point program of legislative and administrative action to better educational standards in the Watts area as well as in other danger spots in the state. The committee urged the Governor to put the needed legislative action on the agenda for our 1966 special session, and he has publicly agreed to do so.

Fourth, improvement of school libraries in priority areas by giving funds to enable them to stay open evenings and Sundays, and to hire professionally trained staff. Fifth, provision should be made for "advancement schools" for persons over 18 who are drop-outs, unemployed, or who lack basic skills to hold jobs. The sixth and last recommendation is that money be provided to hire non-professional teacher aides in order to free more teachers for more actual instruction.

Investment in the education of its people is the soundest any state can make. Now that we are alerted to some of the problems facing California, we can decide what needs to be done for our universal welfare.

SEVERAL OF these recommendations supplement, or even overlap, features of the federal War on Poverty program, but the committee was of the opinion that the state is better fitted to pin-point danger areas and develop action tailored to meet immediate as well as long range needs. The total cost of the recommended program can not be accurately estimated, but is known to be high. The impact of the program on local school districts is also an unknown factor, as is the availability of trained personnel for the various activities recommended to be undertaken.

Law in Action

Her father died when Jane was young. He left Jane half of his farm land, including the home, and half to Jane's mother. Jane's mother asked the court to set aside the home for her use and the court did.

Jane's mother kept the home, paid the taxes, and improved it from time to time. Jane later married and moved away.

Years later, Jane's mother decided to refinance the place. To get the loan, she asked Jane to sign over her interest to her. She told Jane that she would get her interest back, or that she would be "taken care of" in the mother's will.

Even if there is fraud, the person defrauded must seek recovery soon after he finds out about the fraud.

BESESIDES, a court is unlikely to enforce a spoken promise to will something to another. The law requires such promises to be written. Further, no court can enforce such a vague promise as that a person will be "taken care of" in a later will.

NO WRITTEN promises were made, nor did Jane ask for any specific assurances. From time to time she heard that her mother would remember her in her will. Her mother later sold the home, but paid nothing to Jane. When her mother died, she disinherited Jane. Jane sued her mother's estate for one-half of the old home's value.

The court denied Jane anything. In the first place, Jane had waited too long to claim her half of the property.

Watt Sales Staff Wins Top Honors

A record 34 salesmen and saleswomen of R. A. Watt, Inc., of Gardena, have been recognized by the National Association of Home Builders for their outstanding sales achievements in 1965.

Tax Class Scheduled In Gardena

Registration for a new course on income tax being offered by the Gardena Adult School is now open, according to Ralph Selk, principal of the adult school.

The new class, to be taught by Miss Pauline Conway, will meet Mondays from 7 to 9:30 p.m. at the school, 1301 W. 182nd St., Gardena. The class will begin next Monday.

Preparation of federal and state income tax returns, tax planning, and new rules and regulations for both federal and state income tax returns will be covered in the course. Miss Conway is an accountant and tax consultant and has taught classes in Los Angeles City Schools for eight years. Additional information is available by calling 323-2686 between 1 and 10 p.m., or by visiting the school during the same hours.

According to Phil Walsh, vice president-sales and advertising, each of the 34 has sold more than $1 million of new homes during the year.

This is the highest number of salesmen within one company ever to achieve the coveted "millionaire" status.

Walsh accepted the awards for his sales personnel at a presentation by the National Association of Home Builders in Chicago earlier this month.

R. A. Watt, Inc., is one of the nation's leading land development and home construction companies. Under Walsh's direction the sales force of the company has consistently sold more than 2,000 homes a year throughout Southern California for the last 5 years.

Garden Checklist

1. Check the camellias in bloom now at your nursery and see if they're the ones you've been looking for. Remember that camellias bloom when they're dormant, so you can move or plant them in full bloom safely for instant color.
2. If you enjoyed a living Christmas tree this year, remember to keep it watered. It will last for many seasons.
3. To keep a poinsettia plant flowering for several weeks, place it in your sunniest window and keep it out of drafts. Water it whenever the soil begins to feel dry to the touch. To increase humidity, place the pot on a saucer filled with pebbles to which water has been added.
4. The All American Rose Selections for 1966, Mat-torn, (white hybrid tea) American Heritage, (ivory-yellow and scarlet hybrid tea) and Apricot Nectar, (apricot floribunda) are arriving at your nursery now. Make your selection early to avoid disappointment. If you're too busy to plant them now, heel them into the ground until after the holidays.
5. Bulbs that may be painted now include amaryllis, anemones, callas, gladiolus and ranunculus.

Science Shrinks Piles New Way Without Surgery Stops Itch—Relieves Pain

New York, N. Y. (Special)—For the first time science has found a new healing substance with the astonishing ability to shrink hemorrhoids, stop itching, and relieve pain—without surgery.

In one hemorrhoid case after another, "very striking improvement" was reported and verified by a doctor's observations. Pain was relieved promptly. And, while gently relieving pain, actual reduction or retraction (shrinking) took place. And most amazing of all—this improvement was maintained in cases where a doctor's observations were continued over a period of many months!

In fact, results were so thorough that sufferers were able to make such astonishing statements as "Piles have ceased to be a problem!" And among these sufferers were a very wide variety of hemorrhoid conditions, some of 10 to 20 years' standing.

All this, without the use of narcotics, anesthetics or astringents of any kind. The secret is a new healing substance (Bio-Dyne®)—the discovery of a world-famous research institution. Already, Bio-Dyne is in wide use for healing injured tissue on all parts of the body.

This new healing substance is offered in suppository or ointment form called Preparation H®. Ask for individually sealed convenient Preparation H Suppositories or Preparation H Ointment with special applicator. Preparation H is sold at all drug counters.
