COUNT MARCO

Missiles From The Mail Sack

As I was sifting through my mail pouch the other day, I found one letter that began like this: "Reading your column is something like listening to love songs by Bing Crosby and Doris Day. Everything has been heard before so much that it's all old hat."

There is some truth to this, for the project I have heroically undertaken is the correction of the world-renowned faults of American women. Being American women, it would be difficult for most of you readers to comprehend what a monumental task this is.

But if my words of wisdom to you are old hat, that is because your faults are. It's a hat I must wear until you women remove it.

I feed you my medicine, spoonful by healing spoonful in my daily columns, but many of you don't swallow it. You cough or retch or just gargle. I know this because your garglings reach me in the letters you write me, and in them I find that my elixir has merely dribbled down your chin. Or chins. Letters such as these:

Dear Count Marco: You can talk until you're blue in the face about women looking bad in stretch pants, but I know better. I've got more boy friends all at one time than many women have in a lifetime, because I know how to please them. One of the ways is to display my bottom to the best advantage. It's cute, Marco old bean, and good tight pants show it off better than anything. I'll come over and show it to you if you want proof. — G.

My Dear G.: The line may form at the rear for the rest of your troops, but spare me, please.

Dear Count Marco: I am "Mrs. Average," living in Suburbia, USA, and I vehemently object to everything you've ever said about women! It really makes me howl whenever I read your advice to a good woman whose husband cheats on her — especially when you tell her to reassess herself because it's her fault!

Men should wake up before it is too late and learn how lucky they are to be able to walk in a woman's shadow.

Do you want all women to lie down so a man can put his foot on her and walk all over her? — Queen Bee

My Dear Queen Bee: A man should never touch a woman with his foot.

Dear Count Marco: I wish to protest the column in which you ridiculed women for lavishing love on parakeets and suggested they pour out their love on a man.

The cruelty and vituperation in that column were monstrous and uncalled for. But it seems to me that when a man is so far gone that he must ridicule women because they dare to love one of God's creatures rather than pine for a man, somebody should say something to you.

I would like to refer you, sir, to the National Society for Animal Welfare from which you may obtain voluminous material indicating that saints and spiritually minded women love animals.—L.J.Z.

My Dear L.J.Z.: And I would like to refer you, madame, to any kind of social group where you might meet a man. You might learn that men are even better than parakeets.

Dear Count Marco: You are a disgrace to journalism. I understand that every large metropolitan newspaper must have some bad apples in its barrel, but you and all you work with are vermin.

I write this in haste, but I want you to know I disagree with much that you say: — An Aroused Woman Reader

My Dear: Who ever implied a woman couldn't be aroused . . . hostily or otherwise?

Dear Count Marco: Congratulations on your recent column about older women making better wives. I'm glad there's someone around who appreciates us.

I'm in my mid-sixties, and I definitely prefer young men — around their late 20s or early 30s and there are quite a number of those young lads who prefer women of experience.

Every time I look at these young fillies swishing around thinking how sexy they are, I just have myself a good chuckle. I've forgotten more about how to please men than those chicklets will ever learn, and I've got some tricks that would stand them on their ear! — Rough Rider

My Dear: Magnifique! But don't do anything too strenuous.

A Penny for your Thoughts

By HAL FISHER

Hearings by the Congressional committee investigating the Klu Klux Klan were recessed last week until February 1st. In spite of the reluctance of many Klan members to engage in heart-to-heart conversations about their group activities, testimony of beatings, church burnings, threats and intimidations have been heard. Recommendations will not be made by the committee until the hearings end and the effects of these recommendations may take a long time to be seen. Still, I asked several people in the area:

"Do you think that the Congressional investigations on the Klu Klux Klan will have any beneficial results?"

Roberta Bunch, 105 Via El Chico, Redondo Beach: "I think something good will come out of the investigations. So something must be accomplished just by exposing their extremist methods to the public. I think this is the beginning of the end for the Klan."

Dave Nair, 1651 1/2 W. 226th St., Torrance: "Well, there's already been some results since the investigation started. Some evidence has been brought out about various crimes and there have been resignations from the Klan. The investigations will probably result in a strengthening of the civil rights laws. If they serve the cause of justice then I'm all for them."

Marilyn Macera, 4333 W. 167th St., Lawndale: "The investigations are a good idea. I believe they have already resulted in some contempt of Congress charges. I hope they can do something soon about breaking up this group. People have a hard enough time living together without a group like this around."

Shirley Cassell, 17224 Wilkie Ave., Torrance: "Yes, I do. The Klan will have to pay the penalty for the crimes they've committed. People will have to be educated away from the kind of hate that the Klan has been spreading. Some headway is being made toward the destruction of the Klan but I don't think we'll see it end in our lifetime."

Leon Taylor, 2364 Apple Ave., Torrance: "If any definite results are to come out of the investigations they will probably be to point out to the general public the hitherto unknown activities of the Klan. As far as any legal proceedings resulting from the investigations, I doubt that there will be any in the near future."

HEADS ROSE PARADE

Henry Kearns, international trade and finance executive, has been elected president of the 78th annual Tournament of Roses, to be held Jan. 1, 1967, in Pasadena. He has been a director of the Tournament of Roses since 1937.

Science Winner Named

Stephen Turner of Torrance High School has been awarded the 1966 Bausch and Lomb Medal, Dr. Carl Ahee, principal, has just announced.

The medal, presented annually to high school seniors throughout the nation, is awarded to students who maintain outstanding academic records in science subjects.

In addition to the bronze medal, Turner is now eligible to compete for scholarships offered by the University of Rochester, N.Y.

The son of Dr. Constance Turner, M.D., of 2850 Onrado St., Turner is a straight-A student. He has taken courses in biology, chemistry and physics during his four years at Torrance High.

In addition, he has enrolled in a mathematics class at El Camino College during the 1965 summer session, participating in the college's advanced placement program.

Turner plans to pursue his science and mathematics studies in college.

REAPPOINTED

Fred V. Adam, 15219 S. Budlong Ave., Gardena, has been reappointed to the Apprenticeship Council of California, Governor Edmund G. "Pat" Brown has announced.

The council is a policy-making body operating under provisions of the Shelley-Maloney Apprentice Labor Standards Act of 1939.

Ann Landers Says Don't Force Your Shrinking Violet

Dear Ann Landers: Should I be worried about my 15-year-old daughter? Cathy is a nice girl, no beauty, but wholesome-looking and with a nice figure. She is a good student, a better than average musician and she loves to read.

Cathy will not wear make-up, not even lipstick. Her skin is fair and she looks awfully pale at times. I have told her a little make-up would improve her looks but she's not interested.

Cathy has never been asked out by a boy and unless she is play-acting she couldn't care less. I guess what worries me is that my daughter has no S.A. (sex appeal).

My friends say I should push her more and not let her retreat into a shell. They also feel I should enroll Cathy in a charm school. My husband says we should leave her alone and be happy she is not out getting pregnant like some girls her age.

What is your advice? — MOTHER OF A SHRINKING VIOLET

Dear Mother: I say you should leave her alone and be happy she is not out getting pregnant like some girls her age.

Dear Ann Landers: Who do you think you are anyway? You set yourself up as Miss Know-It-All and half your answers are so out of date they sound like part of the Dead Sea Scrolls. I read your opinion on sending out wedding announcements two days after I had sent out 200 and I'm furious with you.

You are wrong about a wedding announcement being a pitch for a gift. We could not afford a large wedding but we did want to share our good news with our closest friends.

You owe it to all brides who send out announcements to change your advice. I have checked two etiquette books and they both say a wedding announcement does NOT call for a gift. — NO FRIEND OF YOURS

Dear No Friend: The person who wrote asked me how I felt about wedding announcements. I said: "Since you are asking me how I feel I will tell you. In my opinion a wedding announcement is a naked pitch for a gift."

This was a personal opinion and I so described it. Furthermore, I feel the same way about birth announcements, graduation announcements—the whole pestiferous announcement syndrome.

People who want to go by the etiquette books should please go look in the etiquette books and not ask me what I think.

Dear Ann Landers: My brother and I were discussing liquor at dinner tonight with mom and dad. I told them I had read in your column that it is not good to insist that teen-agers not touch a drop because such prohibition may decide them to go hog wild when they get to be 21. Your advice, as I remember it, was to teach teens to drink in moderation.

Dad says I am mistaken and that you would not print anything like that. Please say you did, Ann. We have a bet riding on your answer. —JACK

Dear Jack: Pay up, Bub. More people go hog wild because they started drinking "in moderation" than because they didn't touch a drop when they were young. Alcoholism has reached epidemic proportions in this country and one of the reasons is that people are drinking earlier (and more) than they used to. The best protection against alcoholism is to drink something else instead.

Liquor can ruin your mind, your body and your life. To learn the boozy traps of teenage drinking, write for Ann Landers' booklet: "Teen-age Drinking," enclosing with your request 20c in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a stamped, self-addressed envelope. C 1966, Publishers Newspaper Syndicate.

Cal-Metal Wins Major Contract

Award of a contract valued at $428,095.68 to Cal Metal Corp., 1313 W. Sepulveda Blvd., was announced today by the Defence Construction Supply Center at Columbus, Ohio.

Cal-Metal Corp. was one of four firms responding to a call for bids issued by the Defense Construction Supply Center. The contract is for the production of steel tubes and work will be done here.

New Senatorial District Neglected, Lyman Claims

Significant improvements in highway and public works construction and in employment can be provided residents of "a sadly neglected" section of Los Angeles County if they have effective representation in the State Senate, David K. Lyman said today.

Lyman, the first announced candidate for the State Senator's post from the newly created 32nd District, described the area included in the district as a "no-man's land created from all the leftovers" not included in other Los Angeles County Districts.

"If ever there has been an area lacking in governmental improvement," Lyman declared, "this is it."

THE NEW DISTRICT includes Wilmington, San Pedro, Harbor City, Carson, Lawndale, Watts, Willowbrook, and the strip area of Los Angeles. Portions of Torrance, Lomita, Long Beach, Gardena, and North Redondo Beach are included in the district.

Lyman noted that the bill which creates the 32nd District simply states that "all that portion of the county of Los Angeles not included in the 19th, 21st, 22nd, 23rd, 25th, 26th, 27th, 28th, 29th, 30th, 31st, 33rd, 35th, and 37th Senatorial Districts . . . shall constitute the 32nd District."

Government leaders in the area "almost unanimously agree that the (32nd District) is deficient in such areas as roads, transportation, employment, and public works projects," Lyman said.

WITH EFFECTIVE representation, he added, residents of the area can see important developments in these problem areas:

• Highways—with a representative battling for increased gas tax funds, such streets as Del Amo Boulevard, Carson Street, 190th Street, and Sepulveda Boulevard could be major highways instead of mud ruts when it rains.

• Employment — Described by Lyman as a "working man's area," the southwest section of Los Angeles county needs, however, more jobs, increased training and retraining, and equality in hiring. While a company can go to automation and ignore the needs of the worker, leaving him to pound the pavement, Lyman said, someone must provide re-training for these people and assist them in
