Garden Checklist

1. You can still plant deciduous fruit trees bareroot. If you're short on space, consider the new dwarf varieties that have been especially developed for the small gardens. You get full sized fruit on a shrub-sized tree.

2. Finish pruning deciduous shrubs and trees early this month, but hold off pruning plants that flower in the spring until after they bloom.

3. Set the stage for your summer garden show by putting in warm-weather bulbs now. Plant callas in soil well enriched with manure. Keep setting out new gladiolus plantings to insure a succession of bloom. Amaryllis, cannas, tuberoses and Zephyr Lilies are also available at nurseries and should go in now.

4. New varieties of camellias are in bloom at your nursery. This is the best time to move them into your garden because camellias bloom while they are dormant, so you can plant them without disturbing their winter nap.

5. Roses and trees should be fed around the drip line now, and camellias appreciate a light application of acid fertilizer right after blooming. Check with your nurseryman on the right plant foods to use.

6. Plant calendulas in a sunny place for a nice show of color before the hot weather sets in. They aren't fussy sbout soil, but they do need good drainage.
