Insurance Executive Honored for 40 Years

One of the West's leading women executives in the insurance field was honored this month for 40 years of continuous service with her company. Miss Beich predicts increasing opportunity for women in the insurance field. "Women are outstanding in the detail work which is involved in all phases of the insurance field. I can see unlimited opportunity for women in the insurance business."

Jennie Beich, vice president and secretary-treasurer of Van Camp Insurance, headquarters in San Pedro, was honored by company employees with a surprise luncheon commemorating her 40th anniversary.

Miss Beich joined the San Pedro based firm on Jan. 29, 1926, becoming the fledgling insurance agency's first employee. She has been with Van Camp Insurance continually since that time becoming secretary-treasurer in October, 1958, and being elected vice president in Feb. 1960.

KNOWN AS a specialist in ocean marine insurance, Miss Beich has been active in all phases of company growth as a company officer and stockholder.

Van Camp has grown from the one-girl staff founded by Gilbert Van Camp Sr. and Frank Johnson in 1924 operating from an office at the Municipal Fish Wharf in Los Angeles Harbor, to one of Southern California's largest general insurance agencies with nearly 50 employees and three branch offices.

Miss Beich has observed many changes in the insurance field during her 40 years experience with the firm.

"The greatest change has been the greater number of coverages provided, particularly in package type policies and the increasing amount of details that are involved in the field," Miss Beich points out.

"Insurance is a combination of law and commerce. Today both fields change almost daily and it takes constant study and application to keep abreast of the industry."
