Assignment TV

By TERRENCE O'FLAHERTY

The end has finally come, American women got themselves bobbed. Wake up, barbers! Your time is coming once again.

It was one of the truly great comedies on television, and it will be missed in my house. As a laugh-getter it was unsurpassed. No longer can we scream with delight at the long-haired boys and the short-shake girls.

The teen-screamer was removed to make a place for another milestone in ABC's march of culture — "Batman," a 1966 remake of the old afternoon serial. The original character of "Batman" comes from the comic-book pen of Bob Kane. Current theater reruns of the old serial have been well attended by a more sophisticated set of young people than that for which the films were originally made. Like turn-of-the-century postcards, they're funny now for a different reason.

It is apparent that "Shindig I" and "Shindig II" aren't attracting the audiences they once did. If they were, "Batman" would be flying elsewhere. Are the long-haired dig's audiences are any indication of the shape of things to come, it's going to be a busy summer for barbers. More hair is going to hit the barber shop floor than at any time since the Twenties, when I'M GENUINELY sorry that "Shindig" died before the hairlines went below the shoulder. I was waiting patiently until the boys began to look like Veronica Lake, the peek-a-boo girl. Some of them already looked like June Allyson.

If the pendulum ever swings away from "Herman's Hermits" — and it will — what will these poor kids do? It's not easy to be a has-been before you're old enough to have been had at all. Of course, there's always folk singing but by that time the fickle American audiences will be tiring of them too. (I mean, there's just so much of someone like Bobby Dylan that can be taken by any reasonably honest person with a sense of humor.)

So, dear children, they're all going to disappear some day, to be replaced by a more current crop of favorites. And then, in the far distant future, there will come a day when ABC will be doing a campy remake of "Shindig" to bring forth your derisive laughter at dig's something you now hold sacred. Remember this when you watch your parents laughing at "Batman" and "Robin." Once they used to take them seriously, just as you take Herman, Chad and Jeremy.

Construction to Begin On Carson Fire Station

Award of a contract for the construction of a new county fire station at 127 W. 223rd St. in the Carson area to Charles H. Schiermeyer and a Son, Inc., of South Gate was announced today by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn.

The firm submitted a low bid of $109,350, according to Hahn. The new station will replace a facility located at 404 E. Carson St.

"The growth of the Carson area demands the best possible fire services," Hahn said.

County Fire Chief Keith E. Klinger said the new station will contain 5,600 square feet of working area and will be of brick and rock construction. It will be a drive-through station, allowing apparatus to enter or leave from either end.

It will feature a built-in alarm system, electrically operated fibre glass doors, a public address system, and other work-free advantages.

"This allows more time for fire prevention, fire suppression, and training activities by the station personnel," Hahn emphasized, "as well as providing quick alerts for men in times of emergency."

THE STATION will be capable of housing four engines, an aerial ladder or "snorkel" truck, and a rescue unit.

At present there will be one engine and a rescue unit, both of which are now assigned to the old station.

Clyde H. Grimes, of 117 N. Robertson Ave., Los Angeles, is the architect.

"This new station will keep pace with the rapid growth of population and industry in the Carson area," Hahn said. Construction should start in April. Completion is expected in October.

Garden Checklist

1. Don't let weeds get ahead of you. Take advantage of the excellent selective weed killers available at nurseries. They'll rout the offending weeds without disturbing your lawn, ivy, shrubs or bedding plants.
2. Continue to set out camellias. Prune before new growth starts. Cut back branches that touch the ground and branches that are broken or badly placed. For a delightful accent at entry or patio, see the specially grown "tree" camellias.
3. Set out clumps of delphiniums now and get as many as three separate flushes of bloom from them this year. Choose among the new varieties available in tall, medium and low, bushy plants, and work lime or bonemeal into the planting holes.
4. You'll still find some bargains at the nursery in bare-root plants. Try to find some flowering trees before it's time for them to burst into bloom. Or fill out your shrubbery border with colorful, deciduous shrubs. Last chance to plant roses bare-root.
5. Finish general dormant spraying before buds open.
