

Workshop Gets Funds For Truck

A donation of blue chip stamp books and cash — the result of a three-month drive to help with the purchase of a heavy duty truck — has been presented to the Southwest Association for Retarded Children (SARC) by the Marina District of Junior Women's Clubs, a junior membership affiliation of the California Federation of Women's Clubs.

The Marina District responded to an initial drive by SARC to acquire a much-needed heavy duty truck for PAR Workshops—Southwest, an occupational training and sheltered workshop for mentally retarded adults. The shop serves the Southwest and Centinela Valley areas and is sponsored by SARC in cooperation with the Exceptional Children's Foundation of Los Angeles.

The drive, launched last November, was spearheaded by Mrs. Joe Anderson of 1734 Haynes Lane, Redondo Beach, mental health chairman for the Marina District and a member of the Hawthorne Junior Women's Club.

THE ACQUISITION of the new truck, because it has increased transportation services offered by the shop, has helped in bringing in much additional work for the retarded.

In addition to the Marina District of Junior Women's Clubs, and to the many individual contributors to the SARC truck fund, other contributing organizations were: Raymond S. Osborne Laboratories, Inc., of Los Angeles, Yolo Transport Co. of San Jose, Hermosa Beach Rotary Anns, Safeway Stores, Inc., of Los Angeles, Thompson-Ramwoolridge Space Technology Laboratories of Redondo Beach, Walsh Auto Glass Co. of Torrance, Pittsburgh Plate Glass Foundation of Torrance, Welcome Wagon Alumnae, Standard Oil Co. of California, and TRW Systems Employees Charity Organization.

Bell Seeks Hearing on Wage Laws

Congressman Alphonzo Bell (R-28th District) has called for comprehensive hearings on the minimum wage law.

Bell, an active member of the Committee on Education and Labor in the House of Representatives, said he is concerned about the threat of increased inflation.

administration to view domestic programs in the realistic light of the costs of the Viet Nam war can result in a most dangerous economic situation," he said. "Inflation can bring many hardships to those on fixed incomes and to those in lower income brackets."

Bell said many so-called experts within the Administration are in disagreement over revisions in the minimum wage laws. The congressman asked Representative John Dent, chairman of the subcommittee on labor, to schedule complete hearings on any revision of the Fair Labor Standards Act.
