

Observatory Show Tells Of Astronomy

"Astronomy in Everyday Life" continues this week at Griffith Park Observatory's planetarium theater, the Los Angeles City Recreation and Parks Department reported yesterday.

"Astronomy in Everyday Life" introduces audiences to the subtle ways in which their daily lives are affected by astronomy.

ACCORDING to Dr. Clarence H. Clemminshaw, Observatory director for the Department, the program begins with a speeded-up planetarium time showing the moon going through its various phases. Audiences next learn how the months of the year were named, the reasons for leap year, and the origins of the names of the days of the week.

Dr. Clemminshaw pointed out that the names of the first two days of the week come from the sun and the moon, but that the names of the other five come from names of planets, though not always the names we are familiar with. Thursday, for example, is related to the name of the Norse god of the sky, Thor—a name related to the word "thunder."

OTHER features of the new spectacular are its explanation of the reasons for seasonal changes and discussion of the results of the tilting of the earth's axis.

The planetarium show is presented at 3 and 8:30 p.m. Tuesdays through Sundays, with added matinees at 1:30 and 4:30 p.m. on weekends.

Admission is 75 cents for adults and 30 cents for students under 18 years of age. Children under 5 are not admitted to the theater.

Need a pantry in the kitchen? Try a triple tier of shelves built into a closet for canned goods. The first tier goes on the inside of double closet doors. The second tier is built on swinging shelves hinged to a center pole inside the closet. The third tier of shelves is permanently installed against the closet's back wall. Use sturdy Douglas fir lumber for shelving and door.
