Front Row, Center

It's easy to understand how Nathalie Krassovska became prima ballerina with Igor Youskevitch's Ballet Romantique at the Wilshire Ebell Theatre February 26 and 27. At the age of 17 she was prima ballerina with the Ballet de Paris, then with the London Festival Ballet and Ballet Russe de Monte Carlo. She comes from a long line of outstanding dancers, her grandmother being soloist with the Moscow Imperial Conservatory.

AISLE SEATS: Wish I could say that "Murder Ahoy," the MGM British comedy starring Margaret Rutherford at the Beverly Canon Theatre, is really top-notch. It certainly is amusing and, of course, Agatha Christie's Miss Marple is indistinguishable from Margaret Rutherford; to me it was an evening of very light comedy. . . . Actor-producer-millionaire Jim Wright, from tv's "Lighttrope," plays the field romantically. Before Lauren Bacall married Jason Robards, Jim and she were love-dovey; then it was Natalie Wood. Now it's the attractive chip girl at the GARDENA CLUB, Ola Boese. Ola's Oklahoma Indian blood may be the reason she's got the Indian sign on Jim!

You should excuse our secrecy.

But we have a reputation to protect.

A safe can hold our secret recipe. But somehow the word about Shakey's keeps getting out. For example, have you heard we have 21 scrumptious pizzas on our menu? Or about our Bavarian Black Beer? Or the frivolous family-type atmosphere? No? Well, it's all true, and then some. If you want a real careful, eye-fuf and mouthful, come to a Shakey's tonight. It's a downright revelation, it's safe to say.

CREW'S BACK! . . . Dance and entertainment followers are happy that Paul New and his Crew are back in Apollo Room of Caesar's. Shown (top to bottom) Eddie Weisner, drums; Larry Syrett, electric bass; Paul New; Bobby Polihan, sax, and top, with glasses, is Ralph Winn, piano.

INTRIGUE . . . James Garney and Eve Marie find an unsuspected ally in John Banner in attempting to escape Nazi pursuers in this scene from MGM's "36 Hours," now at United Artists Theatre, Torrance. Rod Taylor also stars in this gripping drama of suspense.

Over the TABLE TOPS

Something delightful for diners to look forward to is the opening tomorrow of the TEA HOUSE at 25318 Crenshaw Blvd. at the Rolling Hills Plaza. Owned and operated by Rose and Louis Song and Joe Woo, The Tea House has an extremely attractive decor, featuring unique authentic Chinese musical instruments and colorful lights, with a spacious dining area as well as an intimate cocktail lounge. The Tea House will feature what is sure to be superb Cantonese dishes, for the chef is Joe Woo who was a master chef in China from the days when he worked for his father who owned restaurants in southern China. Coming to America in 1923 Joe Woo is well known for the friends he has made through his cooking at the Golden Pagoda in New Chinatown as well as the Fortuna in Hollywood. Mrs. Rosa Song is experienced in the restaurant business also, having been hostess in the Orient Restaurant in St. Louis and the Grand Star in Los Angeles' New Chinatown. Louis Song is a commercial artist for Studio "G," so with his advertising and artistic
