Ray Stauble, Sgt. Clark Graham, and Bill Cline. Silverstein represents merchants at the plaza, while Cline represents Torrance Airport concerns. The two groups and the Air Force have combined to celebrate the arrival of spring March 18.

Rolling Hills Plaza Sets Big Celebration for Spring

Air Force recruiters in Torrance and the Torrance Airport businessmen will combine with merchants at Rolling Hills Plaza to "Fly into Spring" March 18.

Announcement of the joint venture was made at a dinner at the Rolling Hills Plaza this week.

Nearby airport concerns will provide live displays of various aircraft and the U. S. Air Force will set up a display of rockets. Merchants in the stores will orient their window displays toward the "Fly into Spring" theme.

Eyes Needed on All Four Sides

A good teacher plans a varying and changing program in the classroom, has eyes on all sides of her head, and makes no issue of discipline.

Four Take Courses at El Camino

Four West High seniors are attending El Camino College this semester under the advanced placement program.

Kenneth Huez and Harry Dunlop are enrolled in a calculus course, while Sheldon Edner has enrolled in an economics class. Ronald Gordon, who participated last semester, is now taking a second semester economics course.

Students for the program were selected on the basis of their academic achievements at West High. The program permits them to enroll in one college course during the regular school day.

Howard Cole, a West High counselor, and W. Holmes Smith, assistant student personnel director at El Camino, are advisors to the students.

The annual clinic is sponsored by the Reiss-Davis Clinic for Child Guidance and the extension division of the Los Angeles Institute for Psychoanalysis. Dr. Rocco L. Motto, director of the Reiss-Davis Clinic, was general chairman.

Theme of the institute was "Classroom Management: Control vs. Freedom."

Two Torrance teachers, Nancy Barilet and Karen Sanford, both of Magruder School, attended the sessions. Featured speakers were Dr. Gaston E. Blom, professor of psychiatry at the University of Colorado, and Dr. Jacob S. Kounin, professor of educational psychology at Wayne State University in Detroit, Mich.

The teacher "dedicated to getting something done instead of handling one issue after another" is the most effective with children, Dr. Blom said.

Dr. Kounin, who has spent 10 years studying emotional disturbed children in the classroom, said the emotional discipline as a discipline in managed if the classroom is well managed." He said teachers should change activities every 10 or 15 minutes to prevent boredom.
