For Law Officers
Seven-Day, All-Hour
Advice Now Available

District Attorney Evelle J. Younger has notified all law enforcement administrators in Los Angeles County that his office will be in a position to give legal advice and assistance, on an around-the-clock, seven-day a week basis, to law enforcement officers anywhere in the county.

This service, District Attorney Younger said, will include assistance in obtaining search warrants anywhere in the county at any hour, on nights, weekends and holidays.

Heretofore, officers in many areas of the county have been unable to obtain search warrants during weekends and on holidays.

THE SERVICE will be administered by Deputy District Attorney Lynn D. Compton, who is Younger's liaison representative will all law enforcement agencies in the county.

Hahn Blasts
Hiring Firm
To Inform

A proposed expenditure of at least $50,000 to hire a public relations firm to publicize a county vaccination campaign has been blasted as "a waste of public funds" by Supervisor Kenneth Hahn.

"The vaccination program itself is vital," Hahn said. "However, there is no need to hire an outside public relations firm to do what county personnel, including 10 'health educators' in public relations, should do.

There should be a direct means of informing parents about vaccinations that are available at any County Health Center, Hahn continued.

One simple method, he suggested, would be to have the county recorder provide the addresses of all parents whose children have been born in Los Angeles County in the last five years and have Health Department personnel contact them.
